Misc. Docket No. 94-9175

ORDER APPOINTING ADDITIONAL MEMBERS TO THE GENDER BIAS REFORM IMPLEMENTATION COMMITTEE

The Supreme Court appointed a Gender Bias Task Force in 1991 to investigate the existence of gender bias in the legal system and to recommend measures for its reduction and eventual elimination. The first recommendation in the Task Force's 1994 Final Report was the appointment by the Supreme Court of a committee to implement the recommendations of the Task Force. An Implementation Committee was appointed by order dated October 18, 1994, and an additional consultative committee was also formed.

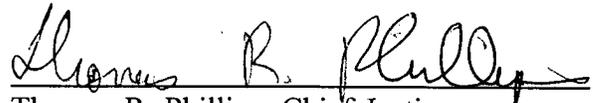

At the first joint meeting of these two committees, it was the consensus of the group that the two committees should be combined, and the Court agrees. Further, two members of the original committee are unable to serve. Today's order reflects these changes in the membership of the committee. The charge of the committee as expanded remains unchanged. It is charged with planning, overseeing, and monitoring implementation, subject to the Court's approval, of the recommendations of the Task Force as well as other policies and procedures for the elimination of gender bias in the Texas legal system.
