11-04 Ancillary Proceedings Task Force draft (January 2011)

1 run-on sentences from the underworld kind of rules, and we 2 just tried to make it understandable.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So you're okay with 4(d), 5 Richard?

6 MR. ORSINGER: No, but I don't want to fight 7 over it.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: How about 4(e), got any 9 comments about that?

10 MR. ORSINGER: That's new, right?

11 MS. WINK: It is.

12 MR. ORSINGER: So we're not constrained to 13 stick with the language?

14 MS. WINK: Absolutely not. And you're going 15 to find a provision like this throughout the other sets of 16 rules, attachment, sequestration, garnishment. So, again, 17 a lot of what we're getting in the first set of rules will 18 apply elsewhere.

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: If we like it.

20 MS. WINK: If we like it.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Any comments about 4(e)?

22 MR. GILSTRAP: Yes.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Frank.

24 MR. GILSTRAP: This looks to me like you get 25 something called "prompt judicial review" any time you want

1 it. I'm not sure what prompt judicial review is, and I'm 2 not sure why you should be able to get it any time. Does 3 that include appellate review? It's -- I think the phrase 4 "prompt judicial review" needs to be explained.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Dulcie, any 6 explanation for "prompt judicial review"?

7 MS. WINK: Actually, I'm going to turn to Pat
8 and David because I think --

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Pat and David. They're 10 shaking their head like "We don't know."

11 MR. FRITSCHER: I was just looking to see if 12 it's in attachments.

13 MS. WINK: It must be either attachment, 14 sequestration, or garnishment.

15 MR. DYER: Well, the judicial review we're 16 speaking of is with the trial court, not appellate review.

17 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: "Prompt" makes that 18 clear, doesn't it?

19 MR. GILSTRAP: But the trial court sets the 20 bond to begin with, so --

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

22 MR. GILSTRAP: And so I guess, you know,
23 Tuesday you set the bond, on Thursday you say, "Judge, I 24 want you to review your decision of Tuesday." Is that what 25 we're saying?

1 MR. DYER: Yes, but "Based on this
2 information, Judge, this is why you need to change it."
3 This is why it's too high, this is why it's too low.

4 MS. WINK: In preparing -- again, in 5 temporary injunctions it could be an ex parte bond.

6 MR. MUNZINGER: I'm sorry, we couldn't hear
7 you.

8 THE REPORTER: You're going to have to speak 9 up.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Dulcie, you've got to 11 speak up.

12 MS. WINK: Many times these -- especially in 13 the TRO practice the bond is set ex parte and it isn't 14 sufficient to protect the respondent for damages
15 sufficiently if the injunction was issued improperly. So 16 being able to fix that is one thing, and I will say that in 17 my experience a lot of practitioners get to even a 18 temporary injunction hearing, and the one thing that they 19 haven't thought through sufficiently is what evidence is 20 necessary for the bond, and then at the end of the hearing 21 when the judge is saying, "Well, where should the bond be 22 set," people are rethinking things and going back to their 23 clients and getting more information, so that's the issue.

24 MR. GILSTRAP: Well, presumably at the 25 temporary injunction hearing the judge has made a decision

1 on the bond, and you have had a chance. Why do we then 2 allow you the next day to come in and ask for further 3 review? It says "on reasonable notice," which can be less 4 than three days apparently, or maybe six hours notice. You 5 see what I'm saying? It seems like it opens the door to 6 constantly raising questions about the bond, and do you 7 want that, or should we permit it?

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any other comments?
9 Yeah. Judge Evans.

10 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Well, I think any 11 hearing should be scheduled at the earliest possible time 12 for the relief that may be needed for parties, and this is 13 a bond for damages on temporary injunction, and it is one 14 that should be tried in the temporary injunction hearing, 15 but I do agree with you, many people get to end of the 16 temporary injunction hearing, and they haven't given any 17 real thought of how to set up a bond for damages for 18 wrongful injunction, but this does tie to sort of my 19 problem with the temporary restraining order. You know, 20 thinking back last night, making the argument I wish I had 21 made, but my wife would not listen to it or my friends, but 22 part of this problem is you come in to the trial judge and 23 the court coordinator and say, "We have this bond here, and 24 the Supreme Court says you have to give this prompt review 25 and probably in less than three days we have to set it from

1 the date of filing." All right. This is Tuesday, and what 2 do we have scheduled for tomorrow? Well, we have that 3 Daubert-Robinson hearing with half the Supreme Court 4 advisory committee that we had to reset because you were 5 supposed to try a hundred thousand-dollar cases faster and 6 you were tied up on 12(b) motions, and, you know, last week 7 you had medical expert day, and, you know, next month is 8 interlocutory appeal month, and you know --

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So where's the problem?

10 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: "Oh, and, Judge, and 11 I'm a general jurisdiction judge in Montague County and 12 I've got a capital murder case I'm trying to get to trial."
13 I just think you have to at some point trust the judges to 14 look at their docket and administer it and decide what the 15 priorities are, and then, you know, in Fort Worth we're the 16 home of Burlington Northern. We've got every FELA case 17 that can be filed in Texas coming through, and they have 18 congressional priority, which is admittedly lower than 19 priority set by this committee, I admit that, but it's just 20 a terrible management problem for us with words like this, 21 but I understand that on the practitioner's side, you know, 22 you can wait a month sometimes to get a hearing scheduled, 23 but --

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What this says --

25 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I'm worried about

1 this whole -- this whole idea that, you know, that we're -- 2 I guess really going back to temporary restraining order, 3 we're going to add a -- write in the rule that says you 4 have to set it in two days irregardless of what's on your 5 docket or what's been going on with the other party, but in 6 this area I would just say that you're entitled to judicial 7 -- "shall have a right to judicial review upon 8 reasonable" -- I would take out the "prompt." You should 9 have tried it, and it should have been done.

10 MR. FRITSCHER: Chip?

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay, yeah.

12 MR. FRITSCHER: And just so the committee is 13 aware, we brought this into the injunction rules because 14 there is a similar rule in attachments, distress warrants, 15 garnishments, and sequestration for the review of the bond 16 and thought it was appropriate to bring it into --

17 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: And I'm aware that 18 that's true. If you're a trial judge you suddenly become 19 aware of all of the times that rules and legislation have 20 been passed that tries to prioritize matters, and so you 21 become a master of just juggling the prioritized matters, 22 whether it's comp or FELA or, you know, the emphasis placed 23 on early dispositive motions that are going to lead to 24 interlocutory appeals, and I think you're entitled to 25 review, and I think you should get it scheduled as quick --

1 and the judge in his or her capacity should schedule it as 2 quickly as possible.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

4 MR. MUNZINGER: I sympathize with what I
5 think Frank Gilstrap was saying, and if he wasn't, this is 6 what I think. The lawyer who comes to get the injunction, 7 if he does his or her work is going to have a checklist of 8 what must be established, which would include the bond, 9 because the rules say you have to have a bond; and if the 10 person does their work then they're going to figure out 11 what the bond is supposed to insure against. Here we're 12 having a rule which says you just had a hearing where the 13 bond, which is part and parcel of the cause of action, 14 necessary to the cause of action, necessary to the relief 15 granted, but we're going to incorporate in the rule some 16 kind of a thing where you can reconsider it two days later 17 or four days later? I don't understand it.

18 It's an invitation in my opinion for trouble 19 and for delay. It's almost as if you're saying, "Okay, all 20 you people who had a bond set, even though the bond is set 21 you've had the temporary injunction hearing, the judge has 22 entered the injunction, the bond has been posted, you've 23 got a right to come back now and second guess the bond, its 24 amount or sufficiency of surety," which obviously anybody 25 could question the sufficiency of the surety. I think that

1 would be -- you don't have to have a rule that says that, 2 but here you're inviting a reconsideration of the amount of 3 the bond, which is part and parcel of the basic cause of 4 action.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Don't you have the right
6 to do this anyway?

7 MR. MUNZINGER: I think you do have the right
8 to do it anyway, and the judge has the right to say, 9 "You're full of prunes, I thought about that," but here for 10 us to incorporate this provision into a rule is an open 11 invitation in my opinion to have second and third guesses 12 as to the amount of a bond when that is part of the cause 13 of action.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Pat.

15 MR. DYER: I see two aspects being discussed 16 in this rule. One is the question of priority, whether we 17 ought to have that less than three days provision and then 18 the provision as a whole for judicial review. Yes, 19 everybody knows you can always file a motion for anything, 20 but we wanted to make these rules very clear to the 21 practitioner. What if you filed the bond in the amount, 22 but the sureties aren't good enough? The defendant ought 23 to be able to come in and say, "Look, yeah, they've got the 24 right amount of the bond, but they've got the guy's dad 25 here as the surety, and he is not sufficient." I think

1 they ought to be able to file that motion. I think we 2 could take out the "less than three days." That isn't in 3 the current provision.

4 MS. WINK: And the word "prompt."

5 MR. DYER: Right. But the current rules
6 allow motions to reduce or increase the bond and to 7 question the sureties.

8 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: And, you know, I 9 always come back to 21 allows the judge to set one in 10 shorter than three days on any of these things; and if 11 somebody comes in and says, "Judge, they put up a fake 12 surety," that's a telephone call almost, recorded, you 13 know; but, I mean, it's a no-brainer.

14 Now, the other motion is more tricky, and 15 that is "We've gone back, and we muffed it during the 16 temporary injunction hearing, Judge. We didn't realize how 17 damaging this injunction would be to our business, and 18 since our relief for wrongful injunction is really against 19 the bond, we need you to up this bond and make them pay the 20 price that they need to pay in order to prevent us from 21 doing what" -- and we're going to come in with about a 22 day's worth of testimony. Fine, I can do that. Let me 23 find that day, we'll get that scheduled, we'll have that 24 evidence, I'll make that decision, and we'll go on down the 25 road; and that bond as I understand it, when it's modified,

1 relates back to the original injunction and covers all the 2 damages, so I'm not certain why I'd have to have a full day
3 evidentiary hearing when someone realizes that they muffed
4 it in the injunction within three days. I can schedule
5 that, I can get it done, and I can get it done in an 6 efficient manner. On the surety I'm with you all the way.
7 You know, you can't put up your uncle who doesn't have any 8 assets.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard Orsinger.

10 MR. ORSINGER: I may be projecting too much 11 into the wording, but to me the first sentence clearly 12 talks about judicial review of the clerk's decision to 13 approve the bond, because you wouldn't be thinking in terms 14 of judicial review of the judge's decision to set the 15 amount of the bond. To me the prompt judicial review of 16 the applicant's bond wouldn't be the amount. It would be 17 the sufficiency of the sureties. That's what is allowed 18 within three days notice and then there's a separate 19 sentence that says, "Any party may move to increase or 20 reduce the bond," which to me is just a normal motion.

21 In other words, the first three-day business 22 -- the less than three-day business to me has to do with 23 judicial review of the sufficiency of the sureties. Now, I 24 may be reading too much into that, but I see the two 25 sentences as different and that the "under three days" is

1 in the first sentence, not in the second sentence, and 2 it -- it could be that we could say "prompt judicial review 3 of the sufficiency of the bond," and maybe everybody would 4 feel better about that and then the second sentence would 5 just more likely be a motion to modify the amount of the 6 bond.

7 MR. DYER: Well, there may be instances where 8 plaintiff's lawyer argues, "Judge, look, the only bond 9 consideration here is they're going to lose a little bit of 10 interest, so keep it low at a thousand dollars"; and the 11 defendant says, "No, Judge, you're actually going to shut 12 down my business, and I'm going to lose $50,000."
13 Plaintiff's lawyer, "No, that's never going to happen."
14 Bond is set at a thousand and then, sure enough, the worst 15 case scenario happens, business gets shut down. So the 16 amount of the bond set by the judge should also be subject 17 to later reconsideration, because bond arguments frequently 18 are about the future.

19 MR. ORSINGER: The arguments I'm hearing that 20 they don't like is they don't want a judge to have to come 21 in and make another decision about the same subject matter
22 within three days. I think this first sentence --

23 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: You know, I don't 24 mind a bond hearing later on because it relates back to the 25 very beginning. I can't speak for the other judges, but I

1 don't mind a bond hearing to increase or even if you want
2 to come in and challenge the sufficiency of the sureties, 3 and that could take some time, depending on who the surety 4 is and how deep you would have to go on it, but it always 5 relates back, and it pulls up the damages, and I think 6 there is -- I think there is -- I think there are -- the 7 practitioner that defends it is a problem.

8 He doesn't know how much damages or she 9 doesn't know how much damages their client is going to 10 incur as a result of the injunction because they don't know 11 the full breadth of the injunction, you know, so I think 12 we're all prepared to retry them. I mean, my sense is a 13 lot of judges are now raising their bonds in business 14 transactions just to -- just to make sure that the 15 applicant's really serious about going forward that wants 16 to pay the price for it. That's my sense.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, do we have consensus 18 that the notice thing is unnecessary, or is that just one 19 person or --

20 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: The day, the number 21 of days?

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah.

23 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: But keep 24 "reasonable notice."

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Wallace, what do you

1 think about the "less than three days' notice."

2 HONORABLE R. H. WALLACE: I don't think we 3 need that.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. What if -- what if 5 we started it at "Any party shall have the right to" -- 6 well, you could leave that out, too, I guess. What about 7 the "right to prompt judicial review"? You always have 8 that, I assume.

9 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: Chip, I actually think 10 that Richard is onto something with the different issues, 11 that the first sentence and the rest of that subsection
12 really is designed to review, because, I mean, Judge Evans, 13 I mean, do you consider when you are reviewing the sureties 14 on the bond that that is a judicial review? I mean, isn't 15 that different than what you -- I mean, it's not a 16 modification in the traditional sense. It's -- I think 17 it's exactly what Richard was arguing, that the clerk 18 approves the bond, and that has the sureties in it probably 19 for the first time that the folks have seen and then you 20 come in and review whether or not you agree with the 21 sureties on the bond.

22 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: That's right, and 23 most of the time the surety problem is handled in these 24 type situations, because the bond is low -- it's a high 25 bond what is -- will bring the sureties into play. 5,000

1 and lower is generally a law firm check into the registry.
2 Anything higher will push it into -- and if you really get 3 a big bond like a hundred thousand-dollar bond then you 4 start seeing the surety issue; but most of those are 5 carriers for that type of bond; and you don't find 6 individuals that will go on many large bonds of that 7 nature; and it depends on whether the financial statements
8 are any good; and if it's an individual that's a surety 9 that somehow got approved by the clerk, that's going to be 10 a long hearing anyway because they're going to take the 11 deposition of the individual to see how stout they are to 12 stand up for the bond and where the assets are pledged.

13 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: It just seems to me that 14 those are two different functions than what we 15 traditionally think of it, and maybe it would be good to 16 have an (e) and an (f) and break those out into separate 17 subsections if you're going to have them. Of course, you 18 could, if we had not eliminated subsection, you know, (g) 19 over here, you could just say, "Modification of the 20 temporary injunction or bond," but since that was 21 eliminated I won't revisit that.

22 MS. WINK: Is there anything about the two 23 different issues, one being the amount of the bond and the 24 other being the sufficiency of the surety or sureties that 25 you think would be handled different; meaning, you know,

1 the judge has got to set the hearing and decide when to 2 have it. That's what we're hearing here and has to -- and 3 can decide it based on uncontroverted affidavits, and if 4 not, then he has to hear evidence.

5 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: Yes, I do think there's 6 something different because the sufficiency of the sureties 7 on the bond is an issue -- the way I look at what is 8 happening, as described by Judge Evans, is that that's 9 never been looked at. I mean, not in the context of the 10 hearing. The amount has, but the -- whether or not the 11 credit worthiness of the sureties are there, that's not 12 something that has been presented to the trial court 13 before.

14 MS. WINK: Let me -- let me just answer that, 15 and what we found in the task force as a whole, the issue 16 of the sureties is something you don't see as often perhaps 17 in the large counties, but in a lot of the smaller ones, 18 every county and every district clerk seems to have a 19 little bit different way of looking at which sureties will 20 be accepted. In some counties there is a standardized -- 21 there is a list that is posted by the clerk so that you 22 know who the clerk will -- will approve, and I always 23 recommend that people look at that before they go to their 24 hearings and get that in place. The problem is especially 25 heated now because of changes in financial issues; and

1 financial issues can be extremely sound one day, and as we 2 found out recently, not the next; and sureties would have 3 to be shifted around. So this actually is an issue that 4 the judges have told us, at least those who have worked on 5 these issues, not just in injunctions, but the other 6 unusual writs, that they do address both of those issues, 7 and it's not uncommon, not uncommon.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Frank.

9 MR. GILSTRAP: Justice Gray is correct.
10 Those are two different issues, and the clerk sets one, the 11 judge sets the other. Even so, I think we can get where we 12 want to get by just striking out the first sentence and 13 then it just reads, "Any party may move to increase the 14 amount of the bond or question the sufficiency of the 15 sureties."

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, that's where I was 17 headed with it.

18 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: That's right. That 19 would do it.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Does everybody think 21 that's okay? All right. Let's do that. Any -- so we'll 22 strike out the sentence that says, "On reasonable notice, 23 which may be less than three days, any party shall have the 24 right to prompt judicial review of the applicant's bond."
25 We'll strike that sentence, leave the rest of it. Any

1 other comments about the rest of (e), 4(e)? Okay.

2 MR. GILSTRAP: One more thing here, that we 3 don't have the Family Code carve out in this particular 4 section. Do we need it?

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, you've got it in 6 (c), don't you?

7 MR. GILSTRAP: Oh, yes. I apologize. Okay.
8 I'm sorry.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. Do we need to 10 talk about the comment?

11 MS. WINK: No, because, again, we moved 12 things out of -- I moved things around, and it will be 13 easier for you to look at it as a whole.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. Let's talk
15 about 5, contents of writ of injunction.

16 MS. WINK: For the most part this comes from 17 Rule 687(d), (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), all the various 18 pieces, and we've broken it out because, again, different 19 courts like to have forms and different clerks do, and we 20 thought this would be helpful.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: When you say you've broken 22 it out, what do you mean by that?

23 MS. WINK: In other words, we actually 24 created a form of the writ because there wasn't one before.
25 We had these rules that had long sentences of what had had

1 to be in the contents of the writ and they needed to be 2 met, but different clerks have or don't have forms, and 3 when we have changes they like to have the forms, so I 4 don't think there's anything different here than what is in 5 the existing rules as far as the general requirements and 6 the content of the writ or the command of the writ.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

8 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: How standard is the 9 form?

10 MS. WINK: This form has never been presented 11 in the rule book before. The information, however, is all 12 standard.

13 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: Yeah, but the form
14 in subparagraph (e) --

15 MS. WINK: Yes, sir.

16 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: -- how standard is 17 that among clerks offices and judges?

18 MS. WINK: Well, I actually pulled a few that 19 I had received in years past to compare them in creating 20 this form, so they complied, they seemed to mesh very well, 21 so it appeared standard from my relatively recent 22 experiences.

23 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: Are there any 24 clerks' offices that have prescribed forms like this one 25 where you fill in blanks and stuff?

1 MS. WINK: Some of them do have them, but in 2 general when you take -- when you take the order granting 3 the writ down to the clerk's office, they don't want you to 4 fill it in. They generally, at least in the large 5 counties, they take it, they fill it in through key stroke
6 and provide it back to you to review, which is always a 7 good idea before it's served. So they start with a form 8 and then they customize it as necessary.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: But what you're saying is 10 they do have a form?

11 MS. WINK: They do. I have never seen one in 12 printed out format. They may exist.

13 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: But is it your sense 14 that lots of counties do, some counties, not very many?

15 MS. WINK: My sense is lots of counties have 16 a format that they use.

17 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: And do you think 18 they get that from the clerks association, or where does it 19 come from?

20 MS. WINK: I can't remember that. Although, 21 they -- I know the counties and the clerks do meet and talk 22 about those kinds of things and share information. I would 23 suspect from that, but that's a guess on my part.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard Orsinger.

25 MR. ORSINGER: I think in my experience back

1 before word processors were so universal that they used a 2 form that actually looked like this, a piece of paper that 3 had the blanks that got filled into the typewriter, and 4 that nowadays they have it on a word processor and they do
5 it, but I also think that the rural counties don't maintain 6 forms at all, because the experience I have had is that I
7 have to ship down whatever process I want. If it's not a 8 straight ordinary citation or something that's routine then 9 I'm expected to submit in word processor form the piece of 10 process that I want associated with whatever it is I'm 11 issuing. So I think it would be helpful to have a form 12 that everyone across the state can -- that will eliminate 13 all of the discretion, but the form better be right, and 14 there's some things in this form that I think -- some words 15 that need to be discussed.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

17 MR. ORSINGER: Something else I'll say, it 18 was in Bexar County, I don't know how universal this is, 19 but they recognize that the piece of process that was to be 20 attached to a notice of a hearing was called a notice, not 21 a temporary restraining order, and so they always issued 22 two pieces of process, one was the TRO and one was the 23 notice of the show cause hearing. That's what it was 24 traditionally called, and you had to have both pieces of 25 process. I see that in your form you've included the

1 notice of hearing in the temporary restraining order, and 2 I'm wondering, I've always thought there was a little bit 3 subjectivity about what these cover sheets or what these 4 pieces of process are that were used, and I don't know, 5 its's been so many years since I dug into this. Do you 6 know if the use of a notice was widespread, and is it still 7 widespread, and is it duplicative of the TRO or not?

8 MS. WINK: Well, they're not duplicative,
9 although in my experience -- I haven't had one in Bexar
10 County, but in my experience when the clerks have prepared 11 them for me they've had not only the TRO language but the 12 show cause language all in the same document.

13 MR. ORSINGER: And they only have one piece 14 of process --

15 MS. WINK: Yes.

16 MR. ORSINGER: -- and it's called a TRO, and 17 they didn't have a second piece of process called a notice?

18 MS. WINK: Correct.

19 MR. ORSINGER: Notice of show cause order?

20 MS. WINK: Correct.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. Then that must have 22 been a local practice.

23 MS. WINK: They really do vary from place to 24 place.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Jan.

1 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: What is the source 2 of the language in paragraph (2), quote, "be dated and 3 signed by the clerk officially"? Would it not be official 4 just to say "signed by the clerk of the court"? Isn't that 5 what we usually say?

6 MS. WINK: Which --

7 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: On paragraph (2).

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: (a)(2).

9 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: What is the source 10 of that language, "be dated and signed by the clerk 11 officially."

12 MS. WINK: Rule 687(f).

13 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: It says it that 14 way?

15 MS. WINK: Yes. "It shall be dated by the 16 clerk and signed by the clerk officially and attested with 17 the seal of his office, and the date of its issuance must 18 be endorsed thereon," so that's why you're seeing No. (2), 19 No. (3), et cetera. We've moved things to where we think 20 we've got them all in here.

21 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: That sounded like it 22 called for the seal of the clerk, not the seal of the 23 court.

24 MS. WINK: It's "dated, with seal of the 25 clerk officially." You're right.

1 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: (3) says "bear the seal
2 of the court."

3 MS. WINK: Let's fix that. Got it. Got it.
4 The -- what you see as (a)(4) is from Rule 687(c), and Rule 5 687(c) says, "It must state the names of the parties to the 6 proceedings," comma, "plaintiff and defendant," comma, "and 7 the nature of the plaintiff's application," comma, "with 8 the action of the judge thereon."

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

10 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, the nature of the 11 application means temporary restraining order or temporary 12 injunction?

13 MS. WINK: Correct.

14 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any other comments
16 about (a), 5(a)? Frank.

17 MR. GILSTRAP: By combining the notice and 18 the order will that cut down on the fees the clerk can 19 charge in some counties where they hit you for both?

20 MR. ORSINGER: I think so. You have to pay 21 for each piece of process.

22 MR. GILSTRAP: Let's do it and let them deal 23 with it.

24 MS. WINK: And if you would like, Chip --

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah.

1 MS. WINK: -- one thing that we can do is 2 send this to Bonnie and some of the other clerks --

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Uh-huh.

4 MS. WINK: -- and have them look over the 5 forms in their -- I don't know if they're meeting this 6 summer, but that might be helpful so that they can prepare.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, that's probably a 8 pretty good idea.

9 MS. WINK: Be happy to do that.

10 MR. ORSINGER: I think I should point out 11 when we're talking about the notice that if you skip the 12 TRO stage and just go directly to the show cause order then 13 this form isn't going to work, and you are not going to be 14 able to serve it with the TRO. You are going to have to 15 have a notice of a show cause hearing --

16 MR. GILSTRAP: Announcing the TRO.

17 MR. ORSINGER: -- because you want the TRO to 18 include it.

19 MS. WINK: Well, actually if you look down a 20 little further on the rule, and it says "Form of writ," we 21 have one for TROs, and you go further and the one for the 22 temporary injunction and the one for permanent injunction.
23 Now --

24 MR. ORSINGER: But I'm talking about the 25 service. Yeah, I know you're talking about the writ that's 1 issued after the judge signs the order --

2 MS. WINK: Uh-huh.

3 MR. ORSINGER: -- but I'm talking about a
4 show cause order that's directing someone to appear at a 5 temporary injunction hearing without there first being a 6 temporary restraining order issued. Sometimes people will 7 skip the TRO and just go to the temporary hearing on the 8 injunction.

9 MS. WINK: I hear you. The form does say, 10 you know, "and when and where you shall appear and show 11 cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued as 12 prayed," et cetera, and that -- that's covered in each, but 13 let me also bring this up since Judge Peebles is not here 14 today. He had a suggestion, which we'll come to later when 15 we get into enforcement of the writs and contempt issues.
16 He said why don't we consider getting rid of the language
17 "show cause." In other words, you know, give them more 18 present language, "appear and defend," you know, and "show 19 why you should not be held," you know -- "why you should 20 not be enjoined" as a fore set or however you want to say
21 it. That way if we want to get rid of those old show cause 22 hearings, it's really -- we can get rid of that language, 23 but I wanted to present that here just so that I could get 24 your input on that or whether you're more comfortable using 25 the show cause language in general. There's a rush of 1 excitement.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Jeff.

3 MR. BOYD: I'm thinking back to when the 4 Court did away with petitions for writ and went to 5 petitions for review. Do we even want to talk about 6 whether all of this is still necessary? I mean, the 7 reality is the court's order -- well, first, under just 8 regular pleadings in Rule 21a, the fact that I filed the 9 petition asking for it and gave you notice is enough to 10 make you show up and respond. You don't have a burden of 11 proof to show cause anything. I've got the petition asking 12 for relief, and you've got to respond to my request. The 13 writ itself, I mean, I understand that the order once 14 signed can only be effective once the bond is filed, but -- 15 but that may be a whole other conversation, but is there a 16 reason to perpetuate this ancient practice that in reality 17 is more fluff than merit?

18 MS. WINK: In fact, as an entire task force, 19 as well as in the subcommittees, it was interesting. The 20 subcommittees separate from the task force as a whole each 21 met to focus on their rules. Almost all of the 22 subcommittees separately and apart came up with the same 23 question, which is can we ditch the writ situation, can we 24 live on the orders and have the orders served, et cetera, 25 the notice, whatever; and Judge Randy Wilson offered to

1 take the lead on that issue; and he and -- and I presume 2 some help in his office -- did some research; and because 3 the references to writs are permeated throughout our 4 statutes, it did not seem feasible. I mean, we would love 5 to get away from that, but we would be asking the 6 Legislature to literally make so many statutory changes or 7 somebody's got to make a separate statute that says, "From 8 this point forward" --

9 MR. BOYD: Right.

10 MS. WINK: -- "any reference to a writ refers 11 to the order granting the relief requested."

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

13 MR. ORSINGER: I would be against that change
14 on policy anyway because of the difficulty we had yesterday 15 in determining what constitutes an order, and with these 16 writs are always enforceable by jail time or immediate 17 possession in the custody of the state --

18 MS. WINK: Yes, sir.

19 MR. ORSINGER: -- and I would like before 20 somebody can be thrown in jail or be picked up without 21 notice and without grand jury indictment or anything else, 22 I would like to see a formal writ. I know -- I mean, I'm 23 usually a modernist, but in this case we're setting up 24 people to be seized, property to be seized, people to go to 25 jail, and you can see the ambiguity of what constitutes an

1 order as a result of our debate yesterday morning. I would 2 like to see a writ any time anybody's property is being 3 seized or any time anybody might go to jail.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Frank.

5 MR. GILSTRAP: Well, I certainly -- I mean, I 6 really like what they've done. They've kept the idea of 7 writ and you just attach the order. That strikes me as 8 really helpful. I like the idea of getting rid of the show
9 cause language. I mean, we know that when you get the writ 10 that says, "You shall appear and show cause, if any you may 11 have, why you should not be thrown in jail," you know, you 12 don't have to do anything except resist, but a layman who 13 is served with that doesn't, and I think they could be 14 quite intimidated by it and think that they're under the 15 duty to come in and prove why the writ shouldn't issue.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. All right. Any 17 other comments about 5(a)? 5(b)?

18 MS. WINK: 5(b), the command of the writ, is 19 taken from existing Rule 687 again, and let me see exactly 20 where it is. Here it is. 687(d) currently says, "It must 21 command the person or persons to whom it is directed to 22 desist and refrain from the commission or continuance of 23 the act enjoined or to obey and execute such order as the 24 judge has seen proper to make."

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any comments on

1 (b)?

2 MS. WINK: You will note that we added the 3 (b)(2) that explains in the rare occasion when a mandatory 4 injunction is granted it gives the mandatory language as 5 well.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What about (c), setting of 7 hearing or trial?

8 MS. WINK: That comes from existing Rule 687 9 as well.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard raised a point a 11 minute ago that said if I don't want to go for a TRO, but I 12 just want to go directly to the temporary injunction stage, 13 this rule doesn't provide for that.

14 MS. WINK: It does not. What you do in that 15 situation is after everyone has been served with the case,
16 you --

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Just get a setting.

18 MS. WINK: -- request a hearing and get a 19 setting.

20 MR. ORSINGER: Well, again, may be local 21 practice, but if you're seeking an injunction, it's been 22 the local practice in the courts where I've gone that you
23 don't just get a Rule 21a fiat on it. You get a notice 24 that directs them to come to court. Now, that could be 25 local practice. I don't think so. I think it's a

1 statewide practice, but there's a difference between -- or 2 at least historically, in my practice there has been a 3 difference between notice of a hearing and notice of a 4 temporary injunction hearing.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Evans, how do you
6 bring them to court on a --

7 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: How do I do what?

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bring people to court on a 9 temporary injunction. Do you --

10 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I do it by show cause 11 order, but I don't -- I don't show cause that they should 12 be in jail. I just show cause why the writ shouldn't 13 issue.

14 MR. ORSINGER: That's my point. I think that 15 there's -- and that proves my point also that I don't think 16 it's a local practice.

17 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I didn't mean to do
18 that. I'll take another position.

19 MR. ORSINGER: I think it's been a tradition 20 across the state that the notice that someone gets with 21 their original petition and citation when a temporary 22 injunction order might issue is more forceful and more 23 formal than a notice of a hearing, just an ordinary hearing 24 for discovery or special exceptions or something like that;
25 and so it's always been a tradition, and I think it's part

1 of the family law practice manual, which, of course, is 2 prevalent, that if what's at stake is the issuance of a
3 temporary injunction then what you get is a notice of -- a 4 notice of hearing or show cause order to appear at a 5 hearing; and, yes, I agree with Frank that it's likely to 6 be more intimidating; but it also means that people are 7 more likely to show up because they really feel like 8 something bad may happen to them if they don't come, even 9 though we all know the burden of proof isn't shifted to the 10 defendant.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Roger.

12 MR. HUGHES: Well, if we're talking about the 13 situation where the party has decided to skip the TRO and 14 go directly to a TI, I think the distinction should be made 15 between whether a party has been served already or whether 16 they're getting notice of a hearing before they've even 17 been served with the -- otherwise by citation. I mean, 18 I -- if a party has already been served and filed an 19 answer, I can understand why just an order from the court 20 might be sufficient to get them; but if they haven't even 21 been served, just to get an order in the mail, "Oh, by the 22 way there's going to be a temporary injunction party at the 23 court, you may attend," I mean, you may -- an ordinary 24 person might get in a quandary about, well, if I don't show 25 up can they issue it or not? So I'm thinking that unless

1 the person has already been served with process so that 2 they know they're a party to the proceeding, I think a 3 notice for a TI hearing ought to be served formally in some 4 manner so that they know that this is -- their attendance 5 is mandatory.

6 MR. ORSINGER: I might follow-up that if 7 you're an unrepresented person and you get served, the 8 first thing you're going to see is the citation, which 9 gives you until Monday following the 20th day of service to 10 appear, and they may not dig deeper because almost always 11 the process server will have the citation followed by the 12 petition followed by the other stuff, and I'm a little 13 worried. I think we should protect people, as Roger points 14 out, that are just being introduced to the process without 15 having a lawyer on board that there's something that's 16 really, really important that's going to happen on a 17 certain day.

18 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I think that's the 19 difference between --

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, David.

21 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I'm sorry.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No, go ahead, Judge.

23 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I was just going to 24 say that's sort of the difference between the normal 25 citation that says you have to file an answer and appear,

1 file an answer on the first Monday before 10:00 o'clock,
2 and a show cause order that orders you to show cause why it 3 shouldn't issue, that that made the difference or emphasize 4 the difference. Maybe I'm missing that point. Now, it's 5 not mandatory where you appear for injunction. Contempt is 6 one where you have to go out and get a writ of attachment.
7 I think most of us -- I think almost everybody is worried 8 about service when they go into an injunction hearing.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: David.

10 MR. FRITSCHER: Chip, may I suggest since Rule 11 5 is dealing with the actual contents of the writ of 12 injunction, would this issue be better addressed in 2(c), 13 Richard? Is that -- the notice and hearing on the TI?

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well --

15 MS. WINK: I think -- I think, David, we 16 might actually have to add some specifics either to Rule 5 17 or Rule 6, which is delivery, service, and return of the 18 writ. So to address -- to address that issue and to get 19 more clarity, Richard, and Judge Evans, we need some input 20 from you. Do you feel like if the party -- if the party 21 has already been served with process, has answered the 22 lawsuit or been served with process, do you feel like a 23 Rule 21a service is sufficient for the TI hearing, or do 24 you feel like the TI hearing should be pursuant to a show 25 cause order?

1 MR. ORSINGER: If they filed an answer I
2 think Rule 21a notice is perfectly adequate notice for any 3 kind of hearing.

4 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: If they've been 5 served, 21a would be -- I would think it would be 6 sufficient unless the rule called for a different service 7 on the writ. You know, entering an injunction or entering 8 an order after service of process and answer and on 21a 9 notice is -- there's another situation, of course, and that 10 is default, and then somebody amends the pleading and then 11 I think every judge who thinks about it requires a 12 reservice of the pleading if the relief has changed from 13 the original default citation.

14 MR. DYER: Not anymore.

15 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: And you have to.

16 MR. DYER: The Supreme Court has changed
17 that.

18 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: What's that?

19 MR. DYER: No, the Texas Supreme Court has 20 changed that. Even if it's a more onerous cause of action, 21 it can be done under Rule 21, 21a.

22 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Well, that's -- 23 MR. ORSINGER: Has the U.S. Supreme Court

24 changed that? Because I thought they had an opinion on it.

25 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: If I could just say

1 this off the record, not in the 48th, but that's okay.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Be careful about talking
3 over one another. Richard.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, back on point, to me
5 it's not whether they're served that counts. It's whether 6 they've filed an answer. If they filed an answer, they're 7 on board, regular notices apply. If they haven't filed an 8 answer, they need to get served with process. That's my 9 opinion. If you take a default, you take a default, but if 10 you haven't taken a default and they haven't appeared then 11 I think you need to get process served on them in order to 12 prove service.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Roger.

14 MR. HUGHES: Well, I'm going to say I totally 15 agree with that remark. That was what I was about to say, 16 and there's another hidden thing, getting back to support
17 your local courts, is that what I have seen some lawyers do 18 is apply for a TRO, then call the opposing counsel and say, 19 "Tomorrow morning at 9:00 I'm going to go in front of the 20 judge. You're invited to attend if you like. Here's a 21 courtesy copy," and then the moment they show up to talk to 22 the judge they -- the other side says, "Well, now you've 23 made a formal appearance, so I don't need to serve you, so 24 I just saved $150 in court costs and service charges"; and, 25 you know, if you've got special appearance and venue issues

1 it could sure make for some difficult issues about whether 2 showing up, you know, is forfeiting your right to contest a 3 TRO or are you waiving a formal service. So I think it 4 might be of some value to say if the person hasn't 5 officially filed an answer they need to be formally served.
6 Nothing else to raise a little much needed revenue for our 7 court system.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So how do we -- how 9 do we fix this?

10 MS. WINK: I think what I'm going to do is 11 I've made bold yellow highlighted notes for myself in the 12 draft so that I can bring something back to you the next 13 time.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. What about the 15 return of writ, subsection (e)?

16 MS. WINK: And that comes from Rule 689, 17 which currently says, "The officer receiving a writ of 18 injunction shall endorse thereon the date of its receipt by 19 him and shall forthwith" -- we did trash "forthwith" pretty 20 much everywhere -- "execute the same by delivering to the 21 party and returning a true copy thereof. The original 22 should be returned to the court" -- and we deal with that 23 here. "The original should be returned to the court from 24 which it issued on or before the return day named therein
25 and in the action of the officer endorsed thereon or next

1 thereto showing how and when he executed same."

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Do you preserve that directory 4 language to the serving officer somewhere else in your 5 rules, or have you just dropped it?

6 MS. WINK: We have the return language in 7 here, I believe.

8 MR. ORSINGER: In other words, there were 9 instructions -- those are instructions to the process 10 server, and you just dropped half of them, and I want to be 11 sure that they're not lost.

12 HONORABLE TOM LAWRENCE: Look at Rule 6.

13 MS. WINK: Look at Rule 6. It's more
14 explicit about delivery, service, and return of the writ, 15 and that's where that language went.

16 MR. ORSINGER: I don't see that you preserved 17 that idea that they need to notate on there the time that 18 they received the writ and then that they are directed to 19 serve it.

20 MR. DYER: (b)(2).

21 MR. ORSINGER: (b)(2), am I missing that?
22 (b)(2)? Okay, fine. I'm okay.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Well, back to (d), 24 any comments about (d), return of writ? Okay. What about 25 the (e), form of writ? Yeah, Richard.

1 MR. ORSINGER: It seems to me that we ought 2 to provide -- since this is a form we're expecting people 3 to follow, we ought to provide for the style of the case to 4 be at the top of the form so that everyone is reminded to 5 put in the cause number and the names of the parties.
6 Isn't that normally -- well, maybe it's not on a piece of 7 process. Maybe it's not at the top. It is on a pleading
8 and an order. If you --

9 MS. WINK: Well, it is placed in the "whereas 10 in this court of such and such county, certain cause 11 wherein so-and-so is plaintiff and defendant." That's 12 generally where it's put.

13 MR. ORSINGER: Okay, then that's fine. We 14 would change that up in a family law case because we don't 15 have a plaintiff and a defendant, and there's no place to 16 mention children in here, which normally would be in the 17 style but apparently is not in the form of the writ. Did
18 you --

19 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: None of this applies 20 to that.

21 MR. ORSINGER: It doesn't? These processes
22 have to apply. This is the only --

23 MR. FRITSCH: 5(f).

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: (f) says if there's a 25 conflict.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, but the Family Code, 2 Family Code provides for the process for a citation by 3 publication, but I don't think it provides for the process
4 of ordinary writs or -- yeah. I can check that out, but 5 I'm almost certain it doesn't. There would be no reason 6 to.

7 MS. WINK: Okay.

8 MR. ORSINGER: Oh, but anyway, I guess if 9 people are flexible about this, I think it might make more 10 sense to just put the style of the case in and just not 11 worry about what they're called.

12 MS. WINK: Okay.

13 MR. ORSINGER: And then at the end of the 14 paragraph that says "whereas in the," blank, "court, copy 15 of the attached petition," I guess that's always assuming 16 that it's only the petitioner or the plaintiff who is going 17 to get a TRO, but it could be a counterclaim, and I wonder 18 if you should just say "pleading or" -- what do you really 19 want here? You know, you have this new definition of 20 the -- of pleading, which is going to be called an 21 application, and it might be a pleading or might be a 22 motion in addition to a pleading, and what do you intend to 23 be served with this? If it's a -- if it's not in the 24 pleading, if it's a separate document, would they be 25 attaching the separate document that's the motion without

1 attaching the petition?

2 MS. WINK: Here's how -- here's how we 3 clarified that later that you will see. If -- if attached 4 to the style, if we have put in the application a copy of 5 the entire petition then the Court does not have to add 6 another copy yet of the entire petition. If, on the other 7 hand -- petition or application. Am I making sense? If on 8 the other hand, it's not attached, it will be -- it gets 9 attached, so you get the entire picture of the case.

10 MR. ORSINGER: Well, it's possible under the 11 new terminology that your application may not be your 12 pleading. Would you agree with that?

13 MS. WINK: I do.

14 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. So we use the word 15 "petition" here, and I'm wondering if we ought to be using 16 the word "application" instead, and if we should be using 17 the word "application," are you wanting the application 18 that's separate -- do you want both the pleading and the 19 application attached or just the application or just the 20 pleading?

21 MS. WINK: I think -- I think we need to make 22 -- the reason a copy of the petition is shown here is 23 because most often these are requested at the original 24 citation.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Right.

1 MS. WINK: So the copy of the petition -- and 2 I'm going to have to do some working on this for you there.
3 I agree. We talk about the application farther in on the 4 third paragraph, so it looks like we need to do some more 5 massaging for those issues, so that we make sure that the 6 form is going to work for both situations, both for the 7 initial pleading as well as at the application.

8 MR. ORSINGER: And I think we ought to -- I 9 mean, maybe you just want to decide that, but it seems to 10 me like you should attach a copy of the petition if they're 11 not being served with the citation that has a copy of the 12 petition, but if they're being served with the citation 13 then you would be asking them to get two copies of the 14 petition. It may be too difficult to write around, but 15 it's possible under your new framework that the application 16 is not the same thing as the pleading, and so we ought to 17 make it crystal clear that the application, meaning the 18 thing that actually requests the TRO is what's attached to 19 the TRO, regardless of what you do about the pleading.

20 MS. WINK: Got it. I'll work on that for 21 you.

22 MR. ORSINGER: And then in the next
23 paragraph, the application -- and it says, "The honorable 24 court upon presentment of the application entered an 25 order." I don't like the use of the word "entered" there.

1 That means when the clerk photocopies it or scans it and 2 puts it into the minutes of the court, so to me the driving 3 act is that it was signed. The court signed an order 4 granting the application. Do you see the next paragraph?

5 MS. WINK: I'm just getting to it. I was 6 still making the notes from the last one. Say that again.

7 MR. ORSINGER: Sorry. On the second line
8 after the word "application" is the use of the word 9 "entered," and that is not going to work.

10 MS. WINK: Got it.

11 MR. ORSINGER: In my opinion, it should say 12 "signed by the court," "signed an order granting the 13 application."

14 MS. WINK: Okay.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Good point.

16 MS. WINK: Uh-huh.

17 MR. ORSINGER: And then --

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What else?

19 MR. ORSINGER: Well, the last line says, "a 20 true copy of which is attached," and we're talking about 21 both the application and the order, so that -- you're 22 referring there as it's a copy of the order, true copy 23 of --

24 MS. WINK: Yes.

25 MR. ORSINGER: -- the orders attached.

1 MS. WINK: Yes.

2 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. And then my last
3 comment on that page or maybe at the top of the next page 4 is that our Rules of Procedure require that the temporary 5 restraining order expire at the end of 14 days, and this 6 doesn't reflect that information anywhere, and you're 7 making the assumption that there will be a hearing that's 8 set before the 14th day and that, therefore, the 9 terminating period of the TRO is the time of the hearing, 10 but if for any reason the hearing is not held it expires by 11 its own terms at the end of 14 days, and I'm wondering if 12 that shouldn't be built into the form.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, wait a second, it 14 was said yesterday that -- that at the -- on day 15 that it 15 converts into a temporary injunction. Is that right or 16 not?

17 MR. ORSINGER: No, that is not right.

18 MS. WINK: Day 29.

19 MR. ORSINGER: The court can extend the TRO 20 for a second 14-day period --

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

22 MR. ORSINGER: -- but in my opinion -- well, 23 that's an interesting question.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Well, what about on 25 day 29 then?

1 MR. ORSINGER: Well, the temporary 2 restraining order expires on the 14th day unless it's 3 extended.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And let's assume it's 5 continued for another 14 days.

6 MR. ORSINGER: Then it expires at the end of 7 the 28th day.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's what I always 9 thought, but somebody yesterday said that on day 29 you 10 could appeal it because it converted to a temporary 11 injunction.

12 MR. ORSINGER: I think that that was a 13 discussion when the parties entered into a permanent 14 extension of the TRO --

15 MS. WINK: No.

16 MR. ORSINGER: -- that that might make it a 17 temporary injunction that was appealable. That's the 18 comment that I heard yesterday. There is no way that a TRO
19 that expires at the 28th day becomes an appealable 20 temporary injunction on the 29th day.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Wallace.

22 HONORABLE R. H. WALLACE: Well, I understood 23 it to mean unless the parties agree and the court extends 24 it more than 28 days. That's what I thought we were 25 talking about.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah.

2 MR. ORSINGER: I remember the discussion, I 3 think, and what the idea was, is if the parties -- it was 4 an argument against allowing people to waive certain things 5 by consent.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

7 MR. ORSINGER: And they were saying that if 8 you consent to the extension of the TRO past the expiration 9 period you've really consented to a temporary injunction.

10 MS. WINK: No, no, no, no, no. No, no, no.

11 MR. ORSINGER: I don't agree with that 12 either. That was the comment that was made.

13 MS. WINK: Very clearly -- and there was a 14 lot of it, and I would have had a fit if that were the 15 situation, but it's very clear the parties can agree to 16 extend a TRO as long as they wish, but a judge cannot -- 17 cannot over the disagreement of the parties extend it 18 beyond the 28 days total.

19 MR. ORSINGER: The question in that debate 20 was a different question, which is that if you agree to 21 extend the TRO until the trial, have you not just agreed to 22 a temporary injunction?

23 MS. WINK: No, but you may be arguing form 24 over substance. The parties can just change the name and 25 enter an additional temporary injunction, but the rule is

1 -- and it is existing rule and existing case law -- that 2 your TRO can be extended beyond the 28 days maximum that 3 the court can extend by agreement. The parties can agree.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, I don't -- I don't know
5 that it matters what was said yesterday --

6 MS. WINK: Right.

7 MR. ORSINGER: -- but the debate was whether 8 it was an appealable order at that point, not whether you 9 could or couldn't do it.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Pam.

11 MS. BARON: Richard, I think the case law
12 says that you can't appeal a TRO, but if for some reason 13 the court enters a TRO that would provide for it to be in 14 place for like let's say 30 days, which is not proper, it 15 would in effect be a temporary injunction, and it is 16 appealable.

17 MS. WINK: Correct.

18 MS. BARON: But it could also be mandamusable 19 because you can't enter a TRO for more than 14 days, but 20 either way, you can go up on appeal.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. Well, I think that's 22 important for us to remember in the --

23 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I understood the 24 statement to be that if an agreed temporary restraining 25 order longer than 28 days was signed that it somehow became

1 an injunction and appealable, and I misunderstood that.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. So my suggestion on 4 that is, is that since this is a form to apply to all 5 situations and since it's possible the hearing may get 6 dropped or not reached, we ought to provide in there that 7 it's going to expire on the 14th day unless extended or 8 something.

9 MS. WINK: I've already made notes, and we're 10 going to work on that for you.

11 MR. ORSINGER: Then on the top of the next 12 page, nine, third line where it says why the temporary 13 issue -- a temporary injunction should not be issued as 14 prayed for, I think we ought to use the word "requested," 15 because this is addressed to laypeople, and the prayer, you 16 know, praying for and the prayer and all that, I'm not sure 17 that they're going to get that at all.

18 MS. WINK: Fixed it. Got it.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Yeah, Judge
20 Wallace.

21 HONORABLE R. H. WALLACE: This is not a big 22 issue that I want to take on, but I have never liked that 23 language, "You will appear and show cause." That, to me, 24 as lawyers we know that's just legalese, but to laypersons 25 and some newspaper people and whatnot that sounds like the 1 judge has already made the determination that this person 2 or company has done something wrong and that they're being 3 ordered to appear and show cause why something bad is not 4 going to happen, and I think we -- I don't like that 5 language.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Anybody else feel that 7 way?

8 MR. GILSTRAP: Yeah.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Frank.

10 MR. GILSTRAP: Yeah, I agree. That's what I 11 was talking about while ago.

12 MR. ORSINGER: Well, my response is, is that 13 if we're going to take that out -- and, I agree, I think 14 it's misleading -- I think we should replace it with some 15 very, very significant language that impresses upon the 16 reader how important it is for them to appear at this 17 hearing, because that's what that language does. It 18 makes -- it scares people into showing up, and if we take 19 it out and we act like this is just another lawsuit you can 20 go hire a lawyer and file an answer in three weeks, I would 21 like if you're going to replace it with some language like, 22 "Notice, if you do not appear, an injunction may be issued 23 against you," or something to tell them how important this 24 hearing is.

25 HONORABLE R. H. WALLACE: Yeah, and I don't

1 disagree with you, because it's conceivable you could have 2 a hearing before their answer date. I mean, even if 3 they're served you've got to pick the hearing within 14
4 days. That could be prior to their answer date. I don't 5 disagree with that. I just don't like --

6 MR. ORSINGER: I get a lot of phone calls 7 from people that get served, and they have read the first 8 page, which says that they've got three weeks to do 9 something, and they don't understand what it is that they 10 have to do, and they haven't read really much past the 11 first page, and so --

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's why they're calling
13 you.

14 MR. ORSINGER: This is the -- they know that 15 they've got to hire a lawyer because they can tell that 16 it's a divorce, but they don't know whether -- I ask them 17 is there a hearing? That's the first question I ask, is 18 there a hearing set, and they say, "I don't know." So I 19 think that people don't read deeply into these pleadings, 20 and we need to be careful about that.

21 MR. GILSTRAP: Well, I agree with that, but,
22 I mean, we don't need an erroneous statement of law. We're 23 telling people that the judge has told them to appear and 24 show cause.

25 MR. ORSINGER: I know. I agree. It's 1 misleading.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, not really, but 3 Kent.

4 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: Why don't we just 5 say, "You should be scared"?

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Be very afraid."

7 MR. ORSINGER: "You are ordered to hire a 8 lawyer."

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "You shall appear and be 10 very afraid."

11 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: What's the substitute
12 language? I mean, it is misleading, and even young, young 13 lawyers that come in freshly trained come in and think that 14 they have the burden to show why an injunction shouldn't 15 issue, but I can't find a better substitute to put somebody 16 on notice that they need to be prepared to defend this 17 matter and show why the other party isn't entitled to their 18 relief. If you had a good -- it impresses the seriousness 19 on the situation.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, show cause is scary
21 sounding.

22 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Yeah.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So but is there a -- yeah, 24 Pat, is there different language we could --

25 MR. DYER: Could we change it to "when and

1 where a temporary injunction may be issued against you on 2 the basis of the attached application"?

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Doesn't sound as scary.

4 MS. WINK: I don't think it's -- yeah, I 5 agree.

6 MR. FRITSCHER: I think --

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Jan.

8 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: Well, surely there 9 is some common language movement that has addressed this 10 issue, and I wonder if we could say "will appear and 11 show" -- leaving out the word "cause" -- "why a temporary 12 injunction should or should not be issued."

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. You could say that.

14 MR. FULLER: Or "explain," "show and 15 explain."

16 MR. GILSTRAP: Boldface, "Warning, if you do 17 not appear, the court may issue an injunction against you 18 in accordance with the attached pleading," something like 19 that.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Restraining your 21 liberties contrary to the American way.

22 MR. ORSINGER: Put it in caps.

23 MR. GILSTRAP: If you violate it, you can be 24 thrown in jail.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Bland.

1 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: I think we say enough 2 in these notices that a layperson would know you must 3 appear, and the language of show cause means a lot to 4 lawyers, so they know that's important when they see it,
5 and so I would be hesitant to leave it out because it's so 6 rooted in tradition, and it does scare people when they see 7 it to know that this isn't just any old hearing, and since 8 a lot of these things will be reviewed by lawyers
9 eventually I think it's important to have them in there so 10 they know what they're dealing with.

11 MR. BOYD: But it's incorrect, isn't it? I
12 mean, the responding party has no burden to show anything.

13 MS. WINK: I think that's -- that's 14 technically true, but awfully misleading, right, to the 15 person who receives it. The old-fashioned language "show 16 cause why I should not do this against you" or those kinds 17 of words, what we really want them to know is it's 18 important -- it's urgent that they appear, that they be 19 prepared to defend themselves, however that -- and defend 20 the allegations and that they show why the court should not 21 take the action that's requested by the applicant and enter 22 an injunction against them.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Kent.

24 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: There is a movement
25 that's gained a fair amount of traction around the country

1 that I think is generally referred to as the plain language
2 movement, and I've worked with it somewhat in working with 3 the PJC over the last decade, and we have worked with one 4 person who's been sort of a consultant in the past at the 5 University of Texas who has helped with respect to that, 6 and we've made some progress. It's been limited, but this 7 is the sort of task that I think is perfectly suited to get 8 a consultant to take a look at it and try and suggest how 9 it could be written in a plain language format.

10 I agree with Justice Bland's point that there 11 are certain aspects of the -- you know, the ancient 12 practice that may be worth keeping around, but having 13 somebody who has that eye towards writing it so that a -- 14 you know, a ninth grader who is not legally trained could 15 read it and fairly understand the import of the language is 16 really useful, and I think it's a direction which we need 17 to generally move. I think it's particularly important for 18 this sort of thing because, you know, as Richard pointed to 19 with respect to family law practice, there are a lot of 20 folks that may not be hiring lawyers. You know, we forget 21 about that as an access to justice question. Not everybody 22 is going to pull their checkbook out and write, you know, a 23 10,000-dollar retainer to a lawyer to have them dance down 24 to the courthouse and represent them in these proceedings.
25 There are a lot of folks and I think -- I trust people have

1 seen folks having to show up and fend for themselves, and 2 we ought to facilitate their ability to do so when they 3 have to.

4 MS. WINK: And I would also say we can drop 5 in the commentary that says that we're using this language
6 to replace the old show cause language so that the lawyers 7 will know that when they look at the rule.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: If Judge Peeples were 9 here, he would say that there's no problem with the show 10 cause language, it's been with us for over a hundred years, 11 and to try to mess with something that's as basic as that 12 to our jurisprudence is an unwise thing to say.

13 MS. WINK: Actually, Chip, he called me 14 specifically to talk about this this week, and he wants to 15 get rid of the show cause language.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Like I said, if Judge
17 Peeples was here --

18 MS. WINK: I wish I had money on that.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: -- he would be all in 20 favor of eliminating this. Jan.

21 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: That was my 22 comment, is that there is so much literature on the plain 23 language that I don't think we need to hire a consultant, 24 but I'm sure that if there is, there are a couple of books
25 out, and University of Texas has one.

1 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: You don't need to 2 hire somebody. I mean, there are people that would sign 3 onto this.

4 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: But of all the 5 language I would think that this has been addressed in some 6 manner already.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Well, are we -- do
8 we have a consensus in this room that we should try to get 9 rid of the show cause language and replace it with some 10 other scary word or words?

11 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I guess we could have 12 a show why instead of show cause.

13 MR. STORIE: Show and tell.

14 MR. GILSTRAP: That's still a misstatement,
15 though. They don't have to show why.

16 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: But they need to be 17 told that when they come they need to be prepared to defend 18 and be in active trial and point out the deficiencies in 19 the plaintiff's case, and if you don't put that language in 20 there for the pro se that this is going to happen, they 21 don't -- they don't -- they don't come in there and say,
22 "Well, I don't have any proof." Show cause does not -- I
23 know we think it's assumed it sets a burden. It says show 24 up and tell us why -- after the evidence, why we shouldn't 25 do it.

1 Now, maybe it could do -- tell why the 2 plaintiff's evidence is insufficient, show cause why the 3 plaintiff's basis is insufficient for injunction. That's a 4 shorthand. I can't find a better word. I agree, it's 5 ancient. I agree that some are confused by it on burden of 6 proof, but it does put an alert out, and I would just take 7 the issue show why orders.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Kent.

9 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: It's always 10 difficult I think to make choices in a vacuum, and I mean, 11 we're looking at this saying it's this or nothing.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

13 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: So I see that Alex
14 Albright isn't here today, so she's perfect to pick on. I 15 wonder if we could get -- and I know from PJC work that she 16 could help facilitate this, I think, and I would be willing 17 to help, but get somebody to write up an alternative that 18 would be a plain language alternative and then vote on that 19 just with respect to the language that would be used in the 20 writ and just have that to look at as an alternative to the 21 arcane language that we've got.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Levi.

23 HONORABLE LEVI BENTON: Just to supplement
24 the voices of those who say we've got to change this, 25 Wikipedia defines "show cause" as "a court order that

1 requires a party to a case to justify, explain, or prove 2 something to a court"; and, of course, the party served 3 with it doesn't have any burden, but maybe something like 4 "Please appear and respond to these charges or claims" 5 might be better.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Hayes, and then 7 Jeff.

8 MR. FULLER: I didn't have my Wikipedia up, 9 but I just penciled in here "where you must appear and 10 explain to the court why a temporary injunction should not 11 be issued." I mean, your explanation could be just they're 12 not entitled.

13 MR. GILSTRAP: You don't have to do that, 14 though, Hayes.

15 MR. FULLER: Huh?

16 MR. GILSTRAP: You don't have to come in and 17 explain.

18 MR. FULLER: If necessary.

19 MR. GILSTRAP: You might be prepared to, but 20 you're not required to come in and explain to the court why 21 you shouldn't be restrained. The other side has got to 22 show why you should be restrained.

23 MR. FULLER: But if you don't come in and 24 show or if you don't come in and if you don't come in and 25 say at least, "Judge, they haven't shown you enough," the 1 judge is going to enter that temporary injunction in all 2 likelihood.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Who was -- Jeff, you had 4 your hand up, and then Justice Gray.

5 MR. BOYD: I was just going to make -- draw 6 the relationship to other -- to the phrase that shows up in 7 a lot of other rules that says a judge can do something for 8 good cause shown, and that imply -- that requires that the 9 party wanting it done has to show good cause to get it 10 done, but in this injunction context the responding party 11 doesn't have a burden to show anything, so I do think it's 12 inconsistent with what the burdens really are.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Gray.

14 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: I think "cease and 15 desist" has a certain amount of -- triggers an emotional 16 response, so I tried to work that in here because that's 17 what you're going after, and so I propose something along 18 the order will have -- "when and where you will have the 19 opportunity to respond to a request that you be ordered by 20 the court to cease and desist the conduct described as 21 requested in the application." And that puts the burden of 22 proof, I think, on the applicant, and the person that's 23 getting this knows that they will have the opportunity to 24 respond, otherwise, they're going to have to cease and 25 desist from doing something, the prescribed conduct,

1 just -- but we're spending a lot of time wordsmithing here, 2 and I think she's got the concept of what we're wanting to 3 change and so --

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Richard. Yeah, I
5 agree. Richard, and then Roger.

6 MR. ORSINGER: At the conceptual level, what 7 I think is fair is to tell people that if they do not 8 appear and contest this that an injunction may be granted 9 against them, because that's what's true, and it's not just 10 appearing, as David points out. They've got to also fight 11 for themselves, so maybe you should say "appear and contest 12 this application," but we need to let them know that 13 something is going to happen by default against them that's 14 going to be in the nature of an injunction if they don't 15 appear and fight it.

16 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: "Appear and be 17 prepared to contest the right of the plaintiff to an 18 injunction."

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

20 MR. GARCIA: Or could you say, "A judge may 21 do something," because even if you don't show there are 22 times when the judge says, "I don't think you" --

23 MR. ORSINGER: Sure.

24 MR. GARCIA: -- "you've proven it."

25 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, I think it should say,

1 "An injunction may be granted against you."

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, I thought Justice
3 Gray's language -- read that again, Judge.

4 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: "When and where you will 5 have the opportunity to respond to a request that you be 6 ordered by the court to cease and desist the conduct 7 described, as requested in the application, and why the 8 other relief requested for therein should not be 9 granted."

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's a mouthful.

11 MR. ORSINGER: The thing about this is in my 12 book is the warning that by default something may be 13 issued. It's just an invitation to come, and I'm looking 14 more for a warning that if you don't come you may be 15 enjoined.

16 MR. GILSTRAP: How about this? "Warning, if 17 you do not appear at the hearing the court may issue an 18 injunction restraining your actions, and if you violate the 19 order you may be put in jail."

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Or fined or both."

21 MR. ORSINGER: I mean, that's great. I like 22 that.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Sufficiently scary.

24 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: Come on, Richard, we 25 need a flag here.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Skip.

2 MR. WATSON: I would just point out we're 3 assuming in all of this that we're not dealing with a 4 mandatory injunction, right? This is not coming in and 5 saying "You're two feet over the line. Tear down your 6 garage."

7 MS. WINK: I'm also going to tweak that as 8 well. I'll make note of it now.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Lawrence.

10 HONORABLE TOM LAWRENCE: I suggest everybody
11 e-mail Dulcie their thoughts and we move on.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, not only that, but 13 the thoughts as expressed here when the record is done.
14 Yeah, Gene.

15 MR. STORIE: One is if we're going to 16 consider modernizing we might take out "whereas," too. I
17 still remember Russell Weinkauff saying, you know, 35 years 18 ago the great contract is it has 15 whereases in it.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. All right. What 20 about the writ of temporary injunction in subpart (e)(2)?
21 Obviously some of the comments that we've just made on 22 (e)(1) are going to be applicable here, and we don't need 23 to go over that again, but Richard.

24 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, skipping what we 25 discussed, down to the big, long paragraph, "Therefore, you

1 are commanded," you've dropped down about halfway and it
2 says "until trial on the merits," and I think we decided 3 yesterday that that was going to be "further order of the 4 court."

5 MS. WINK: I've already made note on that for 6 you.

7 MR. ORSINGER: And then I think that it's 8 kind of archaic phraseology, "trial on the merits with 9 respect to," and that may be gone, but I would just say 10 "trial on the ultimate relief sought is set forth," rather 11 than "with respect to the ultimately sought, which shall be 12 conducted on." It just seems to me to be a lot simpler to 13 say "trial will be held" or "trial will be set for such and 14 such a date."

15 MR. GILSTRAP: Chip, can't --

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Frank.

17 MR. GILSTRAP: I mean, we're attaching the 18 order.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

20 MR. GILSTRAP: So why do we have to say what 21 the order says?

22 MR. ORSINGER: This is a notice of setting 23 being served on somebody.

24 MR. GILSTRAP: Okay, right.

25 MR. ORSINGER: I don't know. I mean, I don't

1 know, maybe -- maybe you just let it go, but --

2 MR. GILSTRAP: Well, if it's a notice of a
3 setting, there may or may not be an attached order, right?

4 MR. ORSINGER: Well, the temporary injunction
5 is required, except in the family law arena, to have a 6 trial setting, I believe.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. That's true.

8 MR. ORSINGER: And so if we're going to 9 require that the injunction be served on them, it seems 10 just as logical to me that you should also include in that 11 injunction the other requirement, which is the setting, but 12 you know, you could go either way. You could just say they 13 have to rely on Rule 21a to get notice of the setting.

14 MR. GILSTRAP: But the injunction order is 15 going to be attached, right?

16 MR. ORSINGER: Yes.

17 MR. GILSTRAP: The injunction order says when 18 the hearing is going to be.

19 MR. ORSINGER: Yes.

20 MR. GILSTRAP: And it says how long the 21 duration is going to be, so why do we need to repeat it in 22 this paragraph?

23 MS. WINK: I actually don't think it's a bad 24 idea for the very face of the writ to have the big focus 25 language. We proposed to attach the order because it

1 certainly doesn't hurt to have all the details of that 2 order and if for some reason the clerk's office fails to 3 type one thing or another it's all there, but I like for 4 people who are receiving service of an important writ to 5 see right on the face the big issues.

6 MR. GILSTRAP: Well, but what we used to do,
7 I mean, back -- I can remember when you went down there and 8 they actually took scissors and cut up your order and stuck 9 it on their form, you know, so that it was part of the 10 writ, and now we're moving away from putting the language
11 in the writ, and the idea was to give them notice. Now 12 we're moving away from putting language in the writ. The 13 problem is, you know, we may get the language in the writ 14 different from the language in the injunction order.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And that would be a 16 problem.

17 MR. ORSINGER: Probably wouldn't keep you out 18 of jail, but it would probably get you a writ to get you 19 out of jail once you're there.

20 MS. WINK: The typographical errors do 21 happen, and, you know, practitioners should be looking at 22 the writs before they just have someone pick them up and 23 have them served on someone, but those are good explanatory 24 issues perhaps to put practitioners on warning, and maybe 25 we need the simple comments about that, not -- but, you

1 know, that's more like a law review article than it is the 2 kinds of comments we should put in binding issues for the 3 rules.

4 MR. ORSINGER: I think it's salutary to have 5 a trial setting in the writ itself, but I can go either
6 way. I mean, I'm not going to lose one bit of sleep over 7 the vote, but it just seems to me like it can't hurt when 8 someone is reading the writ to see when it's set for trial.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And that makes sense to 10 me. Okay. What else? Anything on (e)(3)? Richard?

11 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, skipping the equivalent 12 changes mentioned before, the paragraph that says, "and 13 whereas the honorable judge of said court upon presentment 14 of the application in trial granted a permanent 15 injunction," sounds archaic. It seems to me you just say, 16 "after trial on the application granted the permanent 17 injunction against the respondent" and again use the word 18 "issued" or "signed" rather than "entered a judgment."

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah.

20 MR. ORSINGER: And then in the next
21 paragraph, I think that's awkwardly worded since this is, 22 you know, command language. "You are commanded to obey all 23 the terms of the attached judgment and that." I guess that 24 means you are commanded that you permanently cease. It 25 seems to me like you ought to take the "that" out and just

1 say, "You shall permanently cease and refrain from 2 performing all of the acts."

3 MS. WINK: Good point. I've got that.

4 MR. ORSINGER: "Said judgment," and I don't 5 like the use of the word "restrains" there rather than 6 "prohibits" because to me a restraint is temporary as in 7 temporary restraining order, and I think a prohibition is 8 permanent, which is more like an injunction, permanent 9 injunction, so I would use the word "prohibits" instead of 10 restrains, and then at the end we have --

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Where are you reading 12 from?

13 MR. ORSINGER: The paragraph that's in all 14 caps, starts out --

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

16 MR. ORSINGER: -- "Therefore you are 17 commanded to obey all of the elements" --

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay, yeah.

19 MR. ORSINGER: -- "of the attached judgment," 20 and then I would just simply and modernize slightly and 21 "You shall permanently cease and refrain from performing 22 all of the acts said judgment prohibits you from 23 performing." And at the end of that it says "execute the 24 terms of the order." I don't -- I think this is going to 25 be a judgment. I think it's going to say it's a judgment

1 and not an order, and I think it creates a lot of 2 confusion, and since this is a permanent injunction that's 3 based on a final judgment that's appealable, I think we 4 ought to use the word "judgment" instead of "order." I 5 don't know whether --

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Kent.

7 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: If you're going to 8 refer to it as "said judgment" can we put in some more 9 whereases? And I don't see anything in Latin in here. I 10 would really like to see something in Latin.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Where is our Latin, guys?
12 Roger.

13 MR. HUGHES: Well, you know, I understand, 14 you know, we talk about entering a judgment above, but when 15 we're talking about ordering them in a mandatory 16 injunction, you know, a judgment may include a money 17 judgment or an obligation to pay money, and I'm not sure we 18 want to be able to just willy-nilly enter permanent 19 injunctions to pay money, and when we talk about 20 permanently obey and execute the terms of said order or 21 judgment I suspect perhaps some wordsmithing might be 22 appropriate so that we don't suddenly have the permanent 23 injunction requiring them to do everything in the judgment 24 or be held in contempt. I mean, that could create an 25 ambiguity.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Then you're going to have to 2 fix it in the previous paragraph because it says, "The 3 court issued a judgment, a true copy of which is 4 attached." And so what you're saying is if it's just a 5 pure injunction that's not a problem, but what if it's a 6 money judgment plus an injunction, in which event this 7 paragraph is overbroad because it tells them they have to 8 obey the entire judgment, and really they only have to obey 9 the injunctive portion of the entire judgment.

10 MR. HUGHES: Yes.

11 MR. ORSINGER: And are you expecting them to 12 figure out which is injunctive, or are you going to pull it 13 out and quote it here?

14 MR. HUGHES: Well, you're probably going to 15 have to, I would say, quote it if you want to hold them in 16 contempt.

17 MS. WINK: Now, this is one of those times
18 where I can definitely drop in commentary. When I have a 19 judgment, whether it's agreed or not, we often have the 20 judgment call for the entry of a particular order before 21 the final judgment is entered, and we make the order the 22 injunctive order that's referred to separately in the 23 judgment and then I use that order to get the permanent 24 injunction, so we might want to say "order or judgment," 25 but I'm not sure that's going to be clear to everybody

1 without some commentary on it.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Richard.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Are you saying that you have a
4 separate signed document called an order that's signed by a 5 judge and then another judgment that's signed by the judge?

6 MS. WINK: Sometimes I do it in an agreed -- 7 a partial judgment, and I separate the injunctive part of 8 the judgment from the rest of the judgment.

9 MR. ORSINGER: Are there two separate 10 documents with two signatures of a judge?

11 MS. WINK: Yep. Yep.

12 MR. ORSINGER: Then you probably have two 13 interlocutory orders.

14 MS. WINK: But when they're all gone, when 15 everything is done, everything is no longer interlocutory.
16 When the entire case is taken care of it's no longer 17 interlocutory.

18 MR. ORSINGER: Well, is it ever folded into 19 one judgment, one single judgment?

20 MS. WINK: It can be, yes.

21 MR. ORSINGER: See, I don't -- I wish that -- 22 well, where did Pam go? Sarah is not here. I'm not 23 entirely sure that your two separate orders are not both 24 interlocutory forever. I wish -- all the appellate lawyers 25 or many of the appellate lawyers are gone. Skip's over

1 there doing his e-mails. I'm a little worried that --

2 MR. WATSON: Actually, I was trying to see if 3 there was a Latin app for my iPhone.

4 MS. WINK: I tell you what --

5 MR. ORSINGER: It scares me to death to think 6 that it might be a prevailing practice that you have one 7 injunction judgment order slash and then one like monetary 8 noninjunctive order and they're both signed by the judge 9 and they both together resolve -- we've had many, many 10 discussions over many, many years on this committee as to 11 whether you can do that.

12 MS. WINK: I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll 13 tell you what I'll do. I'll talk to Nina about that and 14 get all of her input on how to tweak this.

15 MR. ORSINGER: That would be good. Just for 16 fun you should also call Sarah. She feels very strongly 17 about this issue.

18 MS. WINK: Will do.

19 MR. MUNZINGER: There's case law --

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Anything more on this?

21 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: Chip, the section that 22 was right before the "Therefore, you are commanded" that's 23 in all caps -- and I know that Richard mentioned something 24 about the archaic part of the "upon presentment" or that 25 might -- my concern there is the trial, because as you

1 pointed out, a lot of these are not actual trials. That 2 whole phrase to me seems like is unnecessary and just the 3 honorable -- "the judge of the court granted the permanent 4 injunction," if you see where I'm going with that.

5 MS. WINK: I do.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. You might say "at 7 trial granted."

8 MR. ORSINGER: Well, what if it's a --

9 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: May not be trial.

10 MR. ORSINGER: -- a default or what if it's 11 an agreed judgment? I don't know, I mean, there might not 12 be a trial. Is it even necessary to say there was a trial 13 if there wasn't?

14 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: That was my point. I 15 just think you can go straight from the -- straight from, 16 you know, the "whereas," in deference to Kent.

17 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: Yeah, I appreciate 18 that.

19 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: I knew you would. To 20 what's ordered.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Are we done now
22 with 5? Okay. Why don't we take our morning break?

23 (Recess from 10:29 a.m. to 10:46 a.m.)

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. We're now on 25 injunction Rule 6, subparagraph (a), and, Richard, you

1 undoubtedly will have comments about it, so why don't we 2 just start with you?

3 MR. ORSINGER: On (a)(1), second line after 4 "Rule 103" I would put in "or to the applicant" so that 5 it's clear that it's parallel construction. In subdivision 6 (2) I've got some problem with the wording or even the 7 concept. If several persons are enjoined, and it says if 8 they reside in different counties then the clerk has to 9 issue additional copies. In my view every single person 10 who is enjoined is entitled to an original, original writ, 11 so it doesn't matter whether they live in different 12 counties or not, and they shouldn't be getting a copy of 13 the writ. I think they should each get their own writ. So 14 if we have four defendants in one county I think that the 15 clerk has to issue four writs and not one writ and three 16 copies of a writ or not just one writ for all four people
17 that happen to live in one county. I mean --

18 MS. WINK: I'll check that for you. It is in 19 the existing rule.

20 MR. ORSINGER: I know, but --

21 MS. WINK: No, no, no, I'll check it.

22 MR. ORSINGER: It's not making any sense to 23 me. I mean, let's say that I have an injunction against 24 four people, and in one case they all live in different 25 counties, so everybody gets their own injunction, but in

1 one case they live all in the same county, so only one of 2 them gets an injunction, and what do you get the injunction
3 back from them and give it to the other guy, or how do you 4 even make this work?

5 MS. WINK: No. I think the language of the 6 rule is not what's actually happening. I think the clerks 7 are issuing multiple writs just as if they were in multiple 8 counties, and they're just using the word "copy."

9 MR. ORSINGER: I would think that, too, but I 10 think we may take this opportunity to have the rule make 11 some sense.

12 MS. WINK: Got it.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any other comments
14 about 6(a)? Skip is not checking his e-mails.

15 MR. WATSON: No.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: He's fully engaged, but 17 has no comments about 6(a).

18 MR. ORSINGER: The one appellate point we had 19 all morning, too.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. 6(b). Richard.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Yes, okay, thank you. It 22 seems to me like we shouldn't list in subdivision (1) just 23 "a temporary restraining order or other writ of 24 injunction." A temporary restraining order under this new 25 phraseology is a writ of injunction because the new

1 definition of writ of injunction is TRO, temporary 2 injunction, and permanent injunction.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

4 MR. ORSINGER: So why don't we just say, "a 5 writ of injunction is not effective." And when you say 6 "until served on the person to be enjoined," I know that's 7 in the rule already, but the way we write these things they 8 say that they're effective on actual notice even before 9 service. I don't know if yours are that way.

10 MS. WINK: No.

11 MR. ORSINGER: All the ones that I see, which 12 are family law ones admittedly, and they follow the form 13 book, so almost all the family lawyers are doing it, say 14 that it's effective immediately upon notice, even if that's 15 before service.

16 MS. WINK: As to other parties who have 17 actual -- who have actual knowledge, whether -- that's 18 true. Those who might be in concert with them, but it's my 19 understanding that the writ is not effective on the 20 responding party until they're served with it.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I don't know. I haven't 22 researched that in so long I may agree with you, but what I 23 will tell you is that's not the prevailing practice in 24 family law.

25 MR. GILSTRAP: That's what Rule 7 says.

1 MR. ORSINGER: What does it say? What does
2 it say? No. It does require service on a party. It 3 requires service on a nonparty.

4 MR. GILSTRAP: Okay.

5 MR. ORSINGER: And so we're up here, we're 6 talking about writs that might be applied to parties, and a 7 lot of these orders, maybe not the permanent injunctions, 8 but the TROs and the temporary injunctions say that 9 there's --

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Frank's point is 11 that this -- if you just read a little bit down the page, 12 injunction Rule 7 says actual notice.

13 MR. ORSINGER: No, it says --

14 MS. WINK: That's other parties. That's 15 other parties.

16 MR. ORSINGER: It depends on how you read it.
17 I see that is actual notice are those -- "and on those 18 persons in active concert or participation who receive 19 actual notice." The first part of that sentence says that 20 the injunction is effective on parties and on nonparties 21 who receive service, and there's a public policy reason to 22 say that parties are influenced by the utterance by the 23 judge versus having it typed up, which is always going to 24 take a couple of hours or maybe even a day or two; and 25 particularly in the family law arena, we expect our

1 injunctive orders to be effective immediately because we 2 need the protection immediately, and we don't have a bond
3 requirement. So what I'm saying is that I'm not sure 4 whether contempt requires service. I don't think it does 5 from my long ago research. If you had actual notice of a 6 court order and you violated it, you went to jail whether 7 you got served with the writ or not. But if someone here
8 has better knowledge than I do about that, all I'm saying 9 is that I think this sentence may be wrong when you say 10 that a writ of injunction is not effective until it's 11 served upon the person to be enjoined.

12 MS. WINK: Just so that you know, in the 13 injunctive, I know Chris Wrampelmeier was on the 14 subcommittee, but that doesn't address your family law 15 issues, but one reason that sentence was added was because 16 both Bill Dorsaneo and Judge Randy Wilson were on the panel 17 with me, and it was the understanding of all of us that it 18 was not effective against the party who is the subject of 19 the application until they're served with the writ, and 20 that's because you have to have the bond -- you have to 21 post the bond or other security if it's been -- before you 22 can have the writ served, and until the bond is posted it's 23 definitely not effective.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard Munzinger.

25 MR. MUNZINGER: I just point out it's an

1 affirmative statement of substantive law, which 2 if erroneous is awfully embarrassing. It's an affirmative 3 statement of substantive law. I would use it to defend 4 against a contempt citation, so Richard's point is if 5 you're in a divorce case and the husband is told not to do 6 A or the wife is told not to do A, and she's told that by 7 the judge, but the injunction hadn't been written, the bond 8 hadn't been posted, she hadn't been handed the piece of 9 paper, she can go do A. I'm not sure that that's good law.
10 I think Richard has a very valid point, and I don't know 11 that we should be adopting a rule or accepting language 12 that has an affirmative statement that is potentially 13 erroneous unless we have law to back up the statement.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Frank, what do you say 15 about that?

16 MR. GILSTRAP: Why don't we -- you know,
17 either in part (b)(1) or in 7, why don't we just have a 18 rule that says when the injunction becomes effective, and 19 sets forth all of the requirements, got to be -- the bond 20 has got to be issued, you've got to either be served or 21 receive actual notice, whether you're a party or nonparty.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Hecht.

23 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: I mean, we want to 24 be careful about this, and I'd be interested in hearing 25 from the other trial judges, but when I was a trial judge,

1 a couple of times --

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That was a long time ago.

3 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: It was a long time 4 ago and the memory dims, but people were standing in the 5 well of the court, and I made it as clear to them as I
6 could that they better not do what I didn't want them to do 7 between the time that I told them and the time that the 8 order got typed up, because there wasn't going to be any 9 difference in my view, and you know, we didn't have -- we 10 barely had typewriters back in that era.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Quill pens, I thought.

12 HONORABLE NATHAN HECHT: If it took time to 13 go get it typed up, everybody knew that whatever was 14 supposed to stop was going to stop. Now, is that the law?
15 I don't know. But I could imagine in a family situation, 16 never having been there, that you might tell people this 17 better not happen again, and if it happened -- if they went 18 out in the hallway and one of them cold-cocked the other 19 one, they would have serious problems.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, well, Judge Evans, 21 what's your thinking about it?

22 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: You would be a fool
23 with me to disobey an oral order while waiting on a 24 writing. I might not get you then but I might get you the 25 next time on it. You know, I've got a long enough memory

1 to remember who messes with it. I've always read it that 2 you can't hold them in contempt unless you have -- you
3 comply with all the issues, but, you know, if you have a 4 litigant that starts taking that kind of liberties with you 5 then you know you have a lot of work to do in the future.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah. Yeah, Roger.

7 MR. HUGHES: Well, I think there is some -- 8 some merit in waiting for service. I mean, as was pointed 9 out earlier, it can't at all be effective until they put up 10 a bond, and I had one case where after we set the bond the 11 applicant could never make bond, they could never -- they 12 could never find a surety who was willing to go on board 13 with them, and so you had an order from the judge, but 14 no -- but no bond, and so -- and knowing how fast things
15 actually got out of that courthouse, I was concerned that a 16 bond might be filed and we might not know about it for a 17 while. So there is some purpose to saying maybe it ought 18 not to be effective until the person gets served.

19 Then, on the other hand, I've had cases where 20 I knew that afternoon there was going to be a bond on file, 21 and my client would not waive service. On the other hand,
22 I told them "Don't be violating it in the meantime."

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Uh-huh. Jan.

24 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: I think it is a 25 correct statement of the law, but it is something that we

1 may want to think about, because I think it's a common
2 problem, and I once asked a lawyer in this same situation 3 who acted inconsistently with what the judge had said in 4 court but before it had been served, and his response -- I 5 said, "What made you think that you could engage in that 6 type of behavior or that you could go out and do that after 7 the judge had essentially told you no?" And he said, 8 "Well, Judge, I was thinking outside the box," so --

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "I was thinking outside 10 the box." Jeff.

11 MR. BOYD: Speaking of thinking outside the 12 box, I wonder if the court's power to enter orders to 13 protect its jurisdiction authorizes Judge Evans to say, I'm 14 hereby ordering you not to do this until this writ gets 15 issued and served so that the contempt hearing is not over 16 a violation of the writ but of that oral order that you 17 issued before.

18 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: You know, we're 19 really talking about the power of the court, the ultimate 20 power of the court to confine somebody, but the 500-dollar
21 fine is not much of a hit on many people for one, and you 22 can only do it one time -- well, each transgression, but 23 you're really talking about the ability to confine, and the 24 fact that somebody violates your order while you're waiting 25 to get the writ in place and served and the bond made, you

1 know, that's not going to make a judge go crazy at the 2 contempt hearing. It just recognizes that the technical 3 portions haven't been met and he can't confine them, and I
4 don't think any of us lose sleep over that, but what it 5 does is it tells us this is not a credible litigant who is 6 going to participate in the process, and we need to be 7 careful, and we need to have -- the next time we go through 8 this we need to have an order ready in the courtroom or 9 bonds ready in the courtroom, and we need to be more -- and 10 maybe need to be more precise. It's not an overwhelming 11 problem to me.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Kent.

13 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: I think Rule 7 is 14 not terribly helpful. It is an attempt to summarize many 15 different issues in a single sentence, and as such I think 16 it is potentially very misleading to people.

17 MS. WINK: By the way, that is existing rule.

18 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: And I am not the 19 slightest bit surprised.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

21 HONORABLE KENT SULLIVAN: I would eliminate 22 it.

23 MR. ORSINGER: A little research or maybe a 24 lot of research could do this, but I used to defend some of 25 these things, and my recollection was, is that you could

1 put somebody in jail for violating an oral order if you
2 could prove that it was clear and specific enough to meet 3 the Slavin requirements. The reason that the writing was 4 required was so that the clarity requirement for jail was 5 clearly met by an objective document that the appellate 6 court could evaluate, but I believe that due process of law
7 does not require a written order. It just requires clarity
8 in understanding what the prohibited behavior is, so if you 9 have a court reporter's record and the judge's order is 10 clear and you violate it, I think you can go to jail.

11 Now, I think for -- maybe we need to have two 12 different conversations about family law practice versus 13 practice everywhere else, because in family law practice
14 you do not have to post a bond unless there is a nonfamily 15 member involved as a litigant and you're getting an 16 injunction against them, like enjoining a foreclosure or 17 something; and so there's usually not an external step 18 that's required for the order to be effective; and, yes, if 19 they're comprehensive orders you're going to need them all 20 written down; but if it's a simple order like you can't 21 remove funds from that account or you cannot take the child 22 out of the state of Texas, that's specific enough in my 23 view for due process.

24 The thing I don't like about this sentence is 25 it's calling everyone's attention to the fact that they may

1 be able to use a legal technicality to violate the court's 2 clear order and never be punished for it. It's saying 3 that, by the way, you are free to disregard the court's 4 order between the time that you walk out of that courtroom 5 and the time you get served by a writ, and, by the way, if 6 you avoid service of the writ for two or three weeks then 7 you can avoid the court's order for two or three weeks.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And even though this might 9 be a correct statement of the law we shouldn't say it.

10 MR. ORSINGER: I don't think it's correct.
11 It's certainly not correct in all areas of the law, but why 12 would we want to advertise that they can freely disregard 13 the court's order as long as they can avoid the deputy 14 constable walking up to their car and dropping it through a 15 window.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I'm not disagreeing.
17 Judge Evans.

18 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: The injunction has to 19 be in writing. I don't disagree with Richard's statement 20 that you can be held in contempt for disobeying an oral 21 order that you were given in court. Don't disagree with 22 that. But for an injunction to be effective it has to be 23 in writing, it has to state the -- currently has to state 24 the reasons why and the acts prohibited, and it has to be 25 served. I think that's the difference, Richard, between

1 the oral pronouncement and an oral order and to the degree
2 that you could enforce an oral order. Now, most oral 3 orders, though, in my area, like trade secrets and things
4 like that or market penetration, if you try a complicated 5 case where a fellow has a certain segment of a market and 6 you're enjoining just certain customer base, you could make 7 that order, but I doubt it would hold up on specificity, 8 the oral order would hold up. We do see a fair number of 9 people come to court with the injunction ready to be signed 10 at the hearing and served on the defendant in the presence 11 of the court so that the bond is the last item to go be 12 done.

13 MS. WINK: And, in fact, my practice is to 14 already -- from the moment a client calls about a potential 15 injunction, we put them together -- if we think we're going 16 to need a surety as opposed to posting cash or other 17 property, I immediately put them together with sureties so 18 that when we have the pleadings before the court and the 19 proposed order we can go straight down, post, writ will be 20 issued within a few hours and served.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Lawrence.

22 HONORABLE TOM LAWRENCE: What percentage of 23 your cases do the defendants not show up on the TI 24 hearings?

25 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Percentage would be

1 the wrong way to approach it maybe, but the percentage is 2 very large when it's lenders being enjoined by borrowers.
3 The lenders are not bothering to come to the initial 4 temporary restraining hearing. They're going to take that 5 first pass on foreclosure, but if you'll get past our 6 current foreclosure issues and get to the other issues, 7 almost everyone appears on our temporary injunction hearing
8 and almost everyone is represented, but I have a strictly 9 civil court with no family law docket, and so that's the 10 nature of it.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Frank.

12 MR. GILSTRAP: I mean, we're not putting this 13 in anything being served on anyone, are we? I mean, it 14 seems to me we need a -- somewhere we need a clear 15 statement as to when the injunction becomes effective and 16 who it's effective against. I mean, just because we don't 17 want people to know is no reason not to put it in the rule.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well --

19 MS. WINK: And, actually, your concerns were 20 part of what the task force addressed. There are a lot of 21 people who think once the judge signs the order they think 22 they have an injunction, and they don't. They think that 23 they can have it enforced by contempt and someone thrown in 24 jail, and they don't, and so by putting the information 25 here we were trying to make sure that the lawyers who don't

1 do this everyday really know what they've got to do. And 2 do it by --

3 MR. ORSINGER: Well, do you want to drop a
4 footnote that says "but your client may be held in contempt 5 of an oral order while they're in court" or whatever --

6 MS. WINK: Yes.

7 MR. ORSINGER: -- so that we're going to have 8 a full disclosure of the law here?

9 MS. WINK: I think it's a good -- I'll make 10 the note of putting that in there right now.

11 MR. GILSTRAP: Although I don't think it
12 belongs necessarily in the part involving service of writ.
13 Maybe it needs to go -- I still like the idea of combining 14 it with 7.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Yeah, Justice
16 Gaultney.

17 HONORABLE DAVID GAULTNEY: This is a new 18 sentence that's being added?

19 MR. ORSINGER: It's a restatement.

20 MS. WINK: I'm talking about a comment. Oh, 21 you mean the sentence that we've been talking about?

22 HONORABLE DAVID GAULTNEY: Right.

23 MS. WINK: Yes. That sentence is not written 24 in the rule, but it is --

25 HONORABLE DAVID GAULTNEY: So the purpose of 1 service is to assure notice.

2 MS. WINK: No. The purpose of service is to 3 do two things. One is notice, but the other is to make the 4 injunction effective. For instance, if I -- if somebody 5 has asked for an injunction against me and we had a TRO 6 hearing, until they post the bond they can't issue the 7 writ; and in that situation, as Judge Evans was saying, 8 it's not an injunction yet, and somebody might never make 9 the bond issues.

10 MR. GILSTRAP: What if the bond is -- the 11 bond is posted, the people know about the injunction, and 12 they're ducking service? They're still subject to the 13 injunction, aren't they?

14 MR. ORSINGER: No.

15 MR. GILSTRAP: That's what 7 says.

16 MS. WINK: No. They're subject to a court
17 order but not injunction.

18 HONORABLE DAVID GAULTNEY: I think this 19 really -- I think you're going to be presented with lots of 20 scenarios, one of which may be someone trying to evade 21 service, and generally -- or in other instances if you 22 have -- if you can show that they -- there are ways you can 23 show effective service, even though it wasn't actually 24 handed to the person if there is an attempt to evade 25 service, but if someone shows up in court, okay, I assume

1 that what we've got is an appearance maybe, so in another
2 context we treat that as there is then no need to serve 3 because you're in court. I mean, you have notice of your 4 need to be there.

5 Why is this different? I mean, why is it 6 that we're giving such strict requirement on specific 7 method of service, personal service, when really in my mind 8 the purpose for service is due process, to make sure that 9 you have -- that you know what you're being restrained from 10 and that you have an opportunity to show up and be heard; 11 but if you're in court and you have actual knowledge of it 12 and there's some technical defect on the service, this 13 says, to me, that it's totally ineffective; and first of 14 all, I think you might be presented with situations where 15 otherwise a court might not hold that. They might say you 16 have actual knowledge of it, you were in court, you made an 17 appearance, you were told, you were handed it to you by the 18 opposing -- by the judge, but because somehow we didn't 19 have the technical return of service in the exact time, you 20 know, we're going to say that that was ineffective, and I'm 21 not -- you know, if that statement is in there in the rule, 22 that's the way it's going to be applied, and is that good 23 policy given the purpose of service is notice?

24 MS. WINK: Well, I'm going to pull research
25 for you guys, because I hear hesitation that this is a true

1 statement of the law. I've been telling people for 2 years --

3 HONORABLE DAVID GAULTNEY: I --

4 MS. WINK: No, no, no, it's okay. I see the 5 issue, but this is a little bit of a due process issue.
6 Understanding the difference between a plain old order and 7 an injunctive order that is punishable at the full range of 8 civil and criminal contempt, right, that's where that due 9 process issue is especially elevated; and that injunctive 10 order cannot live, cannot be enforced as a matter of law 11 before that bond is posted or that security, if any has 12 been required; and then the person who's bound by the soon 13 to be injunctive order doesn't have notice of whether or 14 not that bond has been filed and the writ issued until it 15 is served on them.

16 There are several things that I do and 17 probably Chip does to address that when I'm already dealing 18 with an opposing counsel in the case. We can get written 19 agreements that the attorney will accept service on behalf 20 of someone, just like you do with people who agree to 21 accept service of a citation, and we handle it that way.
22 So there are choices of how to deal with it, but, yes, and 23 I have had the fun of chasing down someone trying to evade 24 service, too.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard Munzinger, you had

1 your hand up.

2 MR. MUNZINGER: I just was going to make the 3 point she just made in response to Judge Gaultney, Justice
4 Gaultney. The injunction is not effective until the bond
5 is posted, so that's different. Everybody can -- the judge 6 can rule on every term, say everything there is, but if the 7 plaintiff seeking injunction or the party seeking 8 injunction can't post the bond, there is no injunction, so 9 there is no order to have violated. There is nothing to be 10 done until that person meets the obligation of the bond, 11 which is not in some cases something that's done in your 12 sleep. Sureties want protection.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Uh-huh. Frank, Pat, and 14 then Jan.

15 MR. GILSTRAP: The injunction is not 16 effective until the bond is posted because the rule says 17 that. I mean, we can -- we can -- as long as we conform to 18 due process, we can change all of this by rule. And 19 maybe -- you know, maybe we want to -- maybe we want as 20 long as it conforms to due process, maybe we want to have 21 people who receive actual notice of the injunction after 22 the bond has been posted bound by the injunction. We 23 certainly want to have a provision in here saying a person 24 as who is an act in concert who received actual notice are 25 bound by the injunction. We can say whatever we want to as 1 long as we conform to the 14th Amendment.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah, Pat.

3 MR. DYER: I was going to point out related 4 to that, the way that it's written and the way that it's in 5 the current rules, someone who is, quote, "in active 6 participation" or whatever the language is here, "active 7 concert or participation," they're bound by it just on 8 actual notice and not service; whereas, the particular 9 target, the way it reads now, is not bound until personal 10 service, so that's somewhat of an anomaly. The other thing 11 is that the way that Rule 7 -- I think we do need to 12 address those who are in active concert or participation.
13 Perhaps we need clearer language, but I think that does 14 need to be in the rule.

15 MS. WINK: Now, let me make a technical 16 distinction here, though. If I am the person who is the 17 actor in concert out there and I get actual notice of 18 something that's not an injunction yet, I haven't violated
19 an injunction. So, again, the injunction itself, the way 20 my lifetime understanding is, until that writ is issued and 21 served, there is not a, quote, injunction.

22 MR. DYER: I would disagree. I would say -- 23 I would say you have an injunction when the bond has been 24 posted. The next question is who does it bind and when 25 does it bind, and the way the current rule reads and our

1 rule reads, if you're in active concert and participation
2 you're already bound if you have notice without service, 3 but it's not effective on the target until it's been 4 served.

5 MS. WINK: That's why I'm going to get case
6 law for you.

7 MR. DYER: Well, I think that's an anomaly.
8 The other thing is the way (b)(1) reads, it says it's not 9 effective until served upon the persons to be enjoined.
10 Aren't we also saying the persons to be enjoined are those 11 in active concert and participation? So it seems to me it 12 could be a little ambiguous with Rule 7.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Jan.

14 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: While I think it is 15 a correct statement of the law, that first sentence, I do 16 think that some clarification and explanation is in order, 17 because we don't want it to suggest that it's in derogation 18 of anything that went on in open court, and I think that an 19 explanation of that and that it does not speak to that 20 issue might be in order, and I wonder also if it could be 21 clarified. I do think that Pat raises a good point about 22 the ambiguity, and I wonder if we could rephrase it to 23 instead of saying "it's not effective until," but "it's 24 effective upon service to the person" to make it a positive 25 statement. There's no reason for it to be negative, but I

1 do agree that there's an ambiguity there.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Roger.

3 MR. HUGHES: Well, making another plea for 4 some sort of actual service on the person before it becomes 5 effective, you know, I -- when we say the person learns of 6 it in court, golly, that's not entirely accurate. The 7 person may know the judge is about to sign or has signed 8 some order up there on the bench, and the parties may have 9 discussed some of the terms, but some of these injunctive 10 orders that are signed are fairly complex, and to say that 11 the person simply because they were in the courtroom when 12 the judge signed it knows every term, every act that's 13 prohibited, that might be a little expansive until they get 14 a chance to read it, and I think what we all are upset 15 about is the possibility that a person could get -- gets a 16 kind of a grace period where they can freely violate the 17 order, violate an order which they have, as I say, notice, 18 not actual knowledge of all the terms, but that seems to me 19 that if at least actual knowledge of the terms is the 20 prerequisite to criminal liability, unless -- I mean, we're 21 putting somebody in jail for violating an order, and do we 22 really want the person saying, "Well, I had actual notice 23 of paragraphs (a) and (b) because those were read in the 24 courtroom, but I didn't know about (c) and (d) because I 25 never saw the draft order, and my lawyer didn't show it to

1 me, and the other side didn't show it to me. I didn't know 2 about it until I got a copy when the sheriff served it on 3 me, and by that time I had already done (c) and (d)." I
4 mean, we would be fighting over things like that, so I
5 think there is -- I realize people don't like the little 6 grace period there or the possibility of willful evasion, 7 but the alternative is then we're going to be fighting 8 these things on just how much you knew about that order's 9 terms when you walked out of the courtroom.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

11 MR. ORSINGER: I think that we're using 12 service as a surrogate for notice, and it's not. People 13 can get notice independent of service, and if I created a 14 hypothetical I think you could see that. Let's say that an 15 individual has been enjoined and the bond has been posted 16 and the process is out in the street and the lawyer gets a 17 copy of it and delivers a copy of that writ of injunction 18 to the client, but they haven't been able to get service of 19 the writ on the client and then the order is violated. In 20 my opinion, due process of law is met. Can you put that 21 person in jail because they had actual notice? Under this 22 rule you can't put this person in jail because they haven't 23 been served, unless you're going to say that a copy to 24 their lawyer is the equivalent of service, in which event 25 the whole debate we're having is kind of irrelevant, but if

1 this means personal service it's being used as some kind of 2 marker for when there's sufficient notice to put somebody 3 in jail, and it's not an accurate marker.

4 The accurate marker is actual notice, not 5 service. That's what the cases require, is actual notice, 6 not service, and I think that it's wrong. I think it's 7 wrong for several reasons, but I think it's wrong that I do
8 not think the U.S. Supreme Court or the Texas Supreme Court 9 requires that you must be officially served with a document
10 as the only way to prove notice. That's just an easy way 11 to prove notice because you've got a return from an officer 12 or at least a private process server that's now authorized 13 by the court or by the Supreme Court, so you have a 14 presumption that the accuracy of the service from the 15 return that's in the file, but I don't know that there's 16 any court ever has said that someone that has actual notice 17 but just simply hasn't been served can't be held to the 18 standards of actual notice.

19 This blows past that and says we're going to 20 forget all the stuff about actual notice, we're going to 21 forget about the real policy here, and we're going to 22 substitute the formality of official service of an official 23 document is the acid test by when somebody can go to jail, 24 and I just think it's wrong in all respects.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So you don't like that

1 sentence.

2 MR. ORSINGER: I don't like that sentence,
3 that's right.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Hayes.

5 MR. FULLER: Aren't we talking about two 6 separate things? All the -- I mean, you can violate an 7 order, you can violate a writ of injunction. All this is 8 talking about is the writ of injunction. It's served -- 9 and whether we put it in the positive, you know, is 10 effective upon service or is not effective until served, 11 all that goes to is whether or not you can be sanctioned or 12 held in contempt for violating that writ. If an order is 13 given in open court on the record in front of all the 14 parties and I choose to disobey that, I'm violating that 15 order, and I'm going to get punished for something else, in 16 some other way perhaps, but I'm going to get punished. So, 17 I mean, I think -- it seems to me we're muddying two 18 concepts here. We've got the order and we've got the writ 19 and all we're talking about here is the writ.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard Munzinger.

21 MR. MUNZINGER: You have a trade secret case, 22 and the defendant is in the court with counsel, the 23 plaintiff is in the court with counsel. The judge grants 24 the temporary injunction. The plaintiff's lawyer goes over 25 and hands the judge an order to the defendant that says the

1 president of the defendant company has to leave or 2 something. Judge says, "That's fine, go on your way." The 3 plaintiff's lawyer's done his homework. He's got the order 4 written, injunction written, in the exact language that the 5 court grants it or it's edited, what have you. The bond is 6 there. They've brought their surety. The bond is posted.
7 The guy has left the courtroom. The judge signs the 8 injunction, and a copy of it is handed to the defendant's 9 lawyer. Is it effective to bind the defendant given the 10 text of this rule?

11 MR. ORSINGER: I would say no.

12 MR. MUNZINGER: I don't know about that 13 because -- I mean, the text of the rule would say you're 14 correct, except that the lawyer is an agent for the client 15 under the law so that service on the lawyer is service on 16 the client, but the text of the rule is confusing under the 17 circumstances I just outlined, and those would not be 18 unusual circumstances in commercial cases with good 19 lawyers.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Bland.

21 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: Well, I agree with 22 Roger that it's important that the parties get notice of 23 the contents of the order, not just that an order was 24 signed or that a judge is going to sign an order, because 25 unlike other kinds of orders, injunctions require you to

1 refrain from certain conduct on an ongoing basis or to 2 engage in certain conduct every once in a while, and if 3 we -- if we say, well, you knew, there's going to be a 4 fight about what you knew, which is why I think there's 5 always been this importance placed on actually serving the 6 writ of injunction, and I do think that good lawyers in 7 injunction cases have their order ready to be signed there 8 in the courtroom and are prepared to serve it immediately 9 because I think the general practice is that people don't 10 expect that the injunction is enforceable until it's 11 served, until the order is signed and it's served. So I 12 don't think it would be a departure from standard practice
13 to say that the actual order needs to be served, and I 14 don't think that people that are in concert and 15 participation with them can be held accountable for it 16 if -- with just the mere knowledge that an injunction was 17 signed. They actually need to know what the injunction 18 says.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Judge Evans.

20 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Yeah, this is just 21 one order that requires service. Other orders don't 22 require service. 21a does not address orders, so it is 23 a -- you really have to go back to 103 and when you do it 24 in court if you do it -- if you really dot the I's and 25 cross the T's, you hand it to your bailiff, and you hand

1 your bailiff a handwritten order, says, "I order you to 2 serve this injunction on the defendant" because you have to 3 have a written order to authorize somebody outside of 103
4 to do it, and you really have to dot your I's and cross
5 your T's if you're taking it on as a judge, and you do it 6 in some circumstances when you've got really recalcitrant 7 type defendants.

8 We did one in one of these city disputes over 9 ordinance and things like that, served them. I handed the 10 bailiff a handwritten order that said, "Serve this on the 11 defendant," made it a court exhibit. I don't know how good 12 it was, but under 103, but that's how we did it and then 13 they duplicated it by having citation issued and served 14 again, but service of orders is just -- and notice of 15 orders are two different issues and have been 16 traditionally.

17 So I would like to make one comment about the 18 balance of it. The balance of that paragraph, it says that 19 only a sheriff or constable can serve a temporary 20 restraining order or writ of injunction that requires 21 certain things. That's a little bit narrower than 103.
22 103 allows a judge -- actually has a preface on it that 23 says "unless otherwise authorized by" -- "unless otherwise 24 ordered by the court," only a sheriff or constable could do 25 that.

1 MS. WINK: To address the 106 issue, 109.

2 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: So I would just say 3 that you might want to say -- if you're going to stick with 4 103 as the method of service of order, just say 103 and 5 drop out that second -- that last -- that last sentence.
6 If you go to 103 it starts out about "No other party who is 7 interested in the outcome of the suit" -- "unless otherwise 8 authorized by a written order only a sheriff or constable 9 may serve citation" in those circumstances. So I'm not 10 sure when I would do that, but I would just go to 103.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Uh-huh. Good point. Any 12 other comment? Yeah, Roland.

13 MR. GARCIA: Well, it just seems like if 14 you -- and this has come up in several cases I've had where 15 you have multiple defendants, some are international 16 out-of-country defendants, and you have to go through The 17 Hague Convention for your initial service, which requires 18 translations to Norwegian and all sorts of things, which 19 can take months, and then the Norwegian consulate has to 20 determine whether they will accept it or not, and so to 21 have to reserve every time you get a new injunction or a 22 modified injunction is just not practical.

23 The way we were -- the way we handled it is 24 -- and maybe this was not correct, but the way all the 25 parties in our case handled it was once they appear and

1 answer and they have counsel then you have a right to serve
2 forever more on that -- on the lawyer, instead of tracking
3 down the Norwegian defendant again through more 4 translations and what have you, because that just means you
5 will never get protection. Only if the lawyer says, "Well, 6 I'm authorized to accept service for defendant A but not 7 defendant B" okay, well, now you've got to go serve 8 defendant B, even though it's the same lawyer you know
9 communicates with all the defendants. So it seems like -- 10 it seems like service should be able to be by hand-delivery 11 right there in court if counsel is there, opposing counsel 12 is there.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Bland, did you
14 have your hand up?

15 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: No, I'm not quarreling
16 with a lawyer accepting service on behalf of his client
17 after he's appeared in the case on behalf of the client.
18 I'm quarreling more with the idea that somebody can be 19 bound to an injunction before the order is signed or in the 20 interim while the bond is being posted and before they had 21 service by any means to any -- of a copy of the order, 22 because orders often look very different than what the 23 judge says in open court.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Let's talk about (b)(2).
25 Does anybody have any comments about that? Yeah, Gene.

1 MR. STORIE: In -- do we want to say "person 2 enjoined" rather than just "party enjoined" since we 3 recognized earlier there could be other persons enjoined?

4 MS. WINK: Got it.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Good catch.
6 Anything else about this? All right. How about (c), 7 return of writ? Any comments about that? Richard.

8 MR. ORSINGER: In (c)(1), second line, 9 executing the writ, I'm not sure if that's really -- is 10 that the correct language, or do we use -- are we 11 delivering the writ? Do we use the word "execute" under 12 all of our service language?

13 MS. WINK: It's my understanding we do. The 14 same kind of language is in all the other rules as well, so 15 we tried to follow the form on that.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any other comments
17 about (c)? All right. Why don't we talk about 7 a little 18 bit more since we've been talking about it a lot so far?
19 Yeah, Roger.

20 MR. HUGHES: Well, I know some people have 21 mentioned they would like to see this obliterated, but I 22 think it's necessary, because the issue does come up about, 23 you know, collateral parties who are not agents, servants,
24 or employees of another party and whether the injunction 25 will reach them, and I think this is one area where having

1 a rule will crystallize for both the bench and the bar just 2 what is -- how far a contempt will reach. Otherwise, we're 3 left with -- to common law, and I think that's a -- since 4 we're talking about exercising the power of criminal 5 contempt, that's a poor way to proceed, and the judge ought 6 to have some language to turn to for guidance.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Richard.

8 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. This rule really 9 carries forward all of the previous debate even in spades, 10 because the previous Rule 6, subdivision (1) says it's not 11 effective unless it's served on the persons to be enjoined, 12 and literally applied then that would mean that you would 13 have to serve it on the parties. Whoever you want to be 14 enforced against you would have to serve the writ on their 15 officers, you would have to serve the writ on the agents, 16 you would have to serve the writ on their servants, you 17 would have to serve the writs on their employees, and you 18 have to serve the writs on their attorneys; and if it's one 19 of those people who are not on that list, all you have to 20 do is give them actual notice. You don't even have to give 21 them personal service.

22 So the parties and their officers, agents, 23 servants, employees, and attorneys all have to be served by 24 a writ, but the people who are only collaterally involved
25 only have to have actual notice, so it's convoluted. It

1 ought to be the reverse of that, which is what I think the 2 proper interpretation in this is, that if you're a party 3 the order is binding on you whether you get served with the 4 writ or not, if you have actual notice of the order. If 5 the judge signs an order, let's forget the oral part. Now 6 we're in writing. It's signed by the judge. A copy is 7 handed to you, and you're a party. No writ has been issued 8 yet because the clerk issues the writ, so no writ has been 9 served, but you're a party, it's a signed order, you have 10 actual notice. You ought to be held in contempt for that, 11 but if you're not a party then you ought to have actual 12 notice before you can be held in contempt.

13 That's what I think Rule 7 is supposed to 14 say, that the order is effective on parties and their 15 employees and their lawyers without the service of a writ, 16 but noninvolved people who don't have a lawyer or 17 representative in the courtroom have to get served with an 18 official writ before they can be held in contempt. That's 19 what I've always thought this language meant, and the 20 sentence we were debating earlier convolutes that in my 21 view and now means, I think, that employees and attorneys 22 are going to have to be served by a writ to be held in 23 contempt, but in the meantime Rule 7 says can you hold a 24 nonparty in contempt even if they haven't been served with 25 a writ, although the previous rule says they can't, it's 1 not effective unless they're served with the writ. So the 2 problem in my opinion is under the previous subdivision (1)

3 we were debating.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Frank.

5 MR. GILSTRAP: We can solve the problem by 6 eliminating the first sentence in 6(b)(1) and then that 7 would leave us with paragraph -- with Rule 7, and one 8 ambiguity in paragraph Rule 7 is how the phrase "who 9 received actual notice of the order by personal service or 10 otherwise," what that modifies. Richard says it might only 11 modify the persons who are in active concert or 12 participation with them. What we can do there is either 13 put a comma there to make sure that last clause modifies 14 the whole rule, or rather than say "who received," put 15 "provided that they received actual notice of the order by 16 personal service or otherwise." That solves your problem.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Dulcie.

18 MS. WINK: I want to -- I just want to point 19 out that there's a little difference between what is 20 drafted here in proposed Rule 7 to what is in existing Rule 21 683, and I think what you've hit, Richard, as well as 22 Frank, is this whole order versus injunction issue. The 23 Rule 683 says, "Every order granting an injunction and 24 every restraining order shall set forth the reasons," 25 la-dee-da-dee-da, "and is binding only upon the parties,"

1 and it goes into the same language that you have here, that 2 the parties, officers, agents, and on persons in active 3 concert, right? So instead of saying "every writ of 4 injunction," it really should -- this rule I believe should 5 say "every order granting a writ of injunction."

6 MR. ORSINGER: Then you better take 6(b)(1)
7 out of it because that is a train wreck. If what you just 8 said is right that actual notice of an order is binding on 9 the parties and their lawyers then you've got to do 10 something with 6(b)(1).

11 MS. WINK: And again, order versus the writ.
12 There's a difference. Order versus injunction, and I think 13 if I take (b) out I'm going to create confusion.

14 MR. ORSINGER: If you say -- if you say that 15 6(b)(1) means that the order is not enforceable unless the 16 writ is served, you're saying the order is not enforceable 17 on the parties and the lawyers even though they have actual 18 notice.

19 MS. WINK: No, I think I'm going back to the 20 same situation. A court is going to have to decide -- if 21 the writ of injunction is not issued and served yet, the 22 court is going to have to decide how am I going to enforce 23 the order if I can't enforce it under the full scope of 24 civil and criminal contempt as it can in an injunction.
25 Okay. So the order has one level, but the writ of 1 injunction is the one that has the higher level. The 2 reason the order applies to persons in concert is to 3 prevent the directly enjoined party from trying to do 4 through others what he or she can't do directly.

5 MR. GARCIA: But the only practical -- I 6 mean, the writ is really just administrative because you've 7 got the order. There's no other action by the judge. You 8 just need the writ because you've got to now go to the 9 clerk's office and get all that bond paperwork posted and 10 you've got to get it paid, and once the bond's paid then 11 you get your writ. There's no magic to it. It's just 12 going down and getting the bond posted, because you don't 13 even know what the bond is until the TRO, the blank is 14 filled in.

15 MS. WINK: We don't know if it will ever be 16 posted. We don't know if that writ is ever going to exist.

17 MR. GARCIA: But that's right. That's the 18 point I think we're getting at, is that it's -- you don't 19 even need a writ document. You just go down and post the 20 bond as a practical matter.

21 MS. WINK: No, I disagree with that, and I've 22 got cases on that.

23 MR. GARCIA: No, I know it's -- right now
24 that's the case, but I'm saying as a practical matter.

25 MR. ORSINGER: What do the cases say?

1 MS. WINK: You've got to get it served. You
2 know, your order isn't it. Your order granting the 3 injunction is not the injunction. It's just not. If we 4 back away from the minutia of the language here and we 5 focus the big picture, a writ of injunction is sort of like 6 a -- before we have the full trial on the merits, I, the 7 court, am going to be enforcing action that I normally 8 can't enforce against parties, especially for otherwise 9 permitted conduct, prior to trial. So we have this 10 elevated level of everything. We've got the sworn 11 allegations and everything else. And the writ itself, 12 you've got to post the -- you've got to be able to post the 13 security for that. I'm excluding the family law issues.
14 There are completely different policy situations there, but 15 the reason the party has to post security is because 16 they've got to be able to make the other side whole in case 17 the judge who is having to work ahead of time on a very 18 expedited basis issues an injunction that they find out 19 later at trial probably never should have been issued, not 20 that they -- they just didn't have everything that they had 21 at trial.

22 So, again, the posting of that security when 23 it's required and the actual issuance of that writ saying 24 this is -- the writ does more than just say it's a piece of 25 paper. It says what's been required has now been

1 officially done. Here is your due process notice of it.
2 Beware, you know, that you can get thrown in jail for that,
3 so there's just a different level of constitutional 4 requirement to get somebody subject to that injunctive
5 order. I'm not saying the court can't take action 6 otherwise for a violation of an order, but --

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Jan.

8 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: And what's 9 important about that is that it's a bright line both for 10 the parties in case it involves complex issues and multiple 11 aspects of an injunction, but also a bright line for the 12 judges, because -- how shall I say this -- having served on 13 the Commission on Judicial Conduct, I will tell you that 14 there are many times when judges express desires to throw 15 people in jail prematurely, and that may be a larger 16 problem than individuals who violate orders of judges in 17 open court, but it really is a problem, and it's a service 18 to the parties as well as to the judges to know what that 19 bright line is and to not leave it to uncertainty.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Evans.

21 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Well, it is -- I've 22 come to the realization that there is no method prescribed 23 by the rules for a judge to serve an order not made in open 24 court. 21a only covers pleadings, motions, does not cover 25 orders, and really deals with the parties service upon each

1 other, and I've -- I've assumed that this order is a
2 method -- since this is a court order as opposed to a 3 party's pleading has to be served in some fashion, but if 4 there was a method for service to handle a problem that 5 Roland brought up of court orders after appearance, I'm not 6 sure that you wouldn't meet the constitutional requirement, 7 but there is -- I don't believe that currently there is 8 anything in the Government Code or in the rules that states 9 how I'm you supposed to serve my orders and when they 10 become effective on the parties.

11 Now, I know what the working definition is, 12 and the practical definition is that when I fax it to an 13 office or mail it to an office and a reasonable time has 14 elapsed for it to be there then I assume that it's 15 effective. Whatever that order is, they've got notice of 16 it. But this is a service of an order, and if there was 17 another method of service available and prescribed by the 18 rules then it could be handled in that fashion. There is a 19 problem with this current procedure. You could have the 20 finest lawyers in town representing someone -- or the 21 worst, and this still requires you to go find a sheriff, 22 pay a fee, and go find the person and deliver it to them,
23 and that seems -- that's not the way it's done.

24 MR. GARCIA: Are you meaning after they 25 appear and have counsel?

1 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Yeah, after they 2 appear.

3 MR. GARCIA: That cannot be right. That 4 cannot be right.

5 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: That shouldn't be -- 6 there should be a better method.

7 MS. WINK: I'll admit to you, Roland, there
8 are lots of people who have not been following the law, 9 which is what I run into all the time when people call 10 about injunctive procedure. That's why we need to make it 11 clear, or if we're going to say that there's the ability to 12 do something through 21a after someone has appeared, I am 13 all in favor of that, believe me. I hate paying for 14 service over and over on writs.

15 MR. GARCIA: Maybe if we had order in 21.

16 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Or you could say
17 "orders of the court may be served" -- I just roughed out 18 in my mind "orders not made in open court," so that you 19 have that out of the way, the oral pronouncement, "may be 20 served upon the parties by facsimile, mail, or 21 hand-delivery or their counsel," and it's done.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Roger.

23 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Now, you might have 24 to work out whether it's effective when it's dropped in the 25 post office or not. I think that's unfair to a party, but 1 there's some issues there.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Roger.

3 MR. HUGHES: Well, I think we may be 4 overthinking how this thing works. I mean, Rule 6(b)(1)
5 tells us when the writ of injunction becomes effective.
6 Rule 7 about who it -- about who it affects doesn't even 7 become an issue until it's been properly served. The 8 second thing about serving an attorney, I realize that on 9 the surface appears to be a lot easier, but I do have some 10 experiences with as soon as a hearing is over and an 11 attorney has lost the hearing, they disappear from the 12 courthouse extremely quickly, and then when you say serve 13 on the attorney, what do you mean, hand-delivery, or do you 14 mean I just left it with the receptionist out front?

15 And, you know, the thing about the return of 16 the writ, we're requiring a rather formal process. We've 17 got a return of service showing an officer has served it on 18 the party, and they fill out when and where. Well, you 19 serve it on the attorney, how do you know the attorney gave 20 it to the client? I mean, in some sense -- in one sense 21 either the attorney is going to fall on the sword and say, 22 "Oh, we forgot it got put in the wrong file" or the 23 attorney is always going to say, "Oh, yeah, I gave it to 24 the client" because the client is not going to want to 25 suffer liability.

1 I mean, I realize this is cumbersome and it
2 seems to allow a gap, but the alternative is that we're 3 going to be plunged into an area where everything becomes 4 fact intensive. This way it's simple. We have a return of 5 citation, shows when it was served. That's it. And I
6 think Rule 7 is pretty practical. I think the Federal rule 7 is pretty much the same way, and once it's been officially 8 served on a party you can preserve -- you can presume that 9 every one of their employees knows about it. You can't 10 make that presumption about others, but then again, you 11 can't go out and serve everyone they might conspire with.
12 I mean, you can't know in advance who the defendant is 13 going to conspire with to violate it. So I think Rule 7 14 seems to me fairly reasonable.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

16 MR. ORSINGER: In my view if you're being 17 held in contempt you're being held in contempt for 18 violating the order, not violating the writ of injunction.
19 In my view a piece of process is just a way to prove 20 service, and so what is happening at this -- either the 21 committee stage or at the task force stage is that we have 22 decided to substitute a more objective measure of when 23 someone has notice, which would be official service of a 24 writ, for the more subjective, but the only constitutional 25 requirement in that is actual notice. If you go read the 1 cases, they require actual notice. They don't require the 2 service of a writ, so we're making a policy decision here 3 that we're going to take the constitutional requirement of 4 actual notice and substitute that, the formality of the 5 issuance and service of a writ, and when we do that we are 6 going beyond due process of law requires, and we're 7 creating a lot of issues about the difference between 8 someone that has actual notice of a signed order and 9 someone who has received a writ service of the signed order 10 as well as the oral order versus the written order.

11 We're affecting a lot of things by making 12 this decision that we're going to forget actual notice is 13 the standard and instead use service of the writ as the 14 standard, and we have problems when we go to third parties, 15 because third parties don't even have constructive notice 16 of what their lawyer knows because they're third parties
17 and are not represented by lawyers. So third parties need 18 to have actual notice, which is what it says. "Actual 19 notice by personal service or otherwise." The first part 20 of that sentence I think is assuming that if you're an 21 employee of a corporation and there's an injunction against 22 the corporation, they're assuming that your employer is 23 going to let you know that certain behavior is prohibited.

24 So to me the rule in its original language is 25 the parties and the people that work for them and their

1 attorneys are bound by a sort of constructive notice to 2 their employer or notice to the lawyer or whatever and 3 third parties are not. So to me we're making the decision 4 today to substitute the formality of a writ for the 5 constitutionally required actual notice in contravention to 6 the way our rules have been applied in the past, and the 7 last thing is that I don't think the family law is 8 excepted. They are excepted from the bonding requirement, 9 but I don't recall that the Family Code says that you don't 10 have to issue a writ of injunction. I could be wrong. The 11 form book frequently waives the writ of injunction being 12 served, but I can tell you as a practice that it is uniform 13 across the state that lawyers do not get writs of 14 injunctions served on the opposing party after a temporary 15 hearing.

16 They all go by the signed order, and they all 17 get the orders noticed -- notice to the opposing party is 18 through their lawyer, and the motions for contempt, people 19 go to jail all the time without the issuance of a writ or 20 the service of a writ, and I don't have the Family Code
21 with me. I will not make that mistake next time, but I 22 don't think the Family Code obviates the necessity of 23 issuing a writ, so if we say that instead of actual notice 24 being the foundation for due process now the issuance and 25 service of a writ is going to be the foundation for due

1 process or enforceability, then I'm thinking that all of 2 our divorces are now going to have to have writs served, 3 and I'll check that out, but if that's true, that's going 4 to be a real problem.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, it's all a big mess.
6 Let's talk about Rule 8. Anybody have any comments on Rule 7 8?

8 MR. ORSINGER: I have a question.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Somehow I knew you would.

10 MR. ORSINGER: This is just a limitation on 11 my experience, but you can get a TRO before you even file a 12 lawsuit. Is that what this is saying?

13 MS. WINK: Indeed.

14 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

15 MS. WINK: This information, by the way, is 16 all existing. It's in Rules 685 and 686. I always feel 17 really hesitant just to use those words in this moment, but 18 the reality is -- and it does vary from jurisdiction to 19 jurisdiction, county to county. You could have a situation 20 happening in the middle of the night, and I assure you even 21 at night there is some judge who is on call for those kinds 22 of issues, and in some counties the judge will also wake up 23 the district clerk, so you're going to be making not only a 24 judge angry but a district clerk as well, which means,
25 lawyers, beware, you better be right, but literally things

1 are heard in the middle of the night. They'll have the 2 petition with them. They can fax it to the judge, but it 3 doesn't yet have a cause number in it. The counties who 4 literally wake up the clerk, the clerk issues a cause 5 number in some of them. This is what we gathered from the 6 way it works throughout county to county from those who 7 were on the task force.

8 So in the situation with the example after 9 hours and there's just somebody on call, as soon as -- you 10 know, it has to be filed and docketed and all of those 11 usual things taken care of, so that's the only reason, and 12 this is rarely going to happen, but it does happen.

13 MR. ORSINGER: Do you have to issue the 14 citation at the same time you issue the writ of the 15 temporary restraining order?

16 MS. WINK: Yes. In that particular situation 17 you would, and literally if a judge orders it, whether by 18 conference call or whatever in the middle of the night and 19 something has to be done, that's where you've made the 20 enemy of the clerk, and that person is going to have to 21 issue it all.

22 MR. ORSINGER: Well, if you haven't filed a
23 petition --

24 MS. WINK: Uh-huh.

25 MR. ORSINGER: -- then what do you attach to

1 the citation?

2 MR. ORSINGER: No, you -- you have a
3 petition. You can't get any of these things without the 4 sworn allegations. Let me give you an example. Okay.
5 This happened back when Justice Wainwright was at Haynes & 6 Boone, and we were at 3:00 in the morning getting ready for 7 a TRO hearing, and suddenly one of the young associates
8 walks in and, you know, with his suit on, and his situation 9 was he was going to have to seize a vessel. Now, that was 10 a Federal issue, but middle of the night, had a client who 11 had huge judgment and the owner of the vessel, and that 12 vessel was worth millions of dollars, was on its way to 13 territorial waters of the United States. If it had touched 14 those territorial waters, we would have had to wake up a 15 particular Federal judge. All the pleadings were written, 16 the affidavits were ready, the copies of the judgments, all 17 those things were ready for that moment.

18 So sometimes we're aware ahead of time. If 19 we had not been aware ahead of time those kind of things 20 would have to be handwritten. Sometimes that happens, but 21 if the court determines in those kind of situations that 22 the injunction is required then absolutely somebody is 23 going to have to issue the cause number. It's going to be 24 the clerk. The cause number, going to file it and docket 25 it, and copies of that petition, whether it's handwritten

1 or otherwise, and sworn allegations and the affidavits are 2 going to be copied and attached to the writ as well as the 3 petition.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Well, in that situation then 5 the TRO is never issued before the suit is filed. It's 6 contemporaneous with the suit being filed, but the writ, 7 meaning the temporary restraining order, which means the 8 writ, is always after there is a petition, after there's a 9 filing fee, and after there's a bond.

10 MS. WINK: You're right. We should make this 11 specify an order granting a TRO.

12 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

13 MS. WINK: I think that's a good
14 clarification.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Any other comments on 16 this? Yeah, Gene.

17 MR. STORIE: Would you have multiple 18 defendants in these as you would multiple respondents in 19 the TRO? So in (b) you might want to say "must also issue 20 a citation to each defendant as a notice."

21 MS. WINK: We don't -- all of our other rules 22 just talk about one defendant, and they issue them for 23 multiples in that situation, so I wouldn't make this 24 special and different for the others.

25 MR. STORIE: Okay.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Any other comments on 2 this?

3 MR. ORSINGER: Under (b) it says "when a true 4 copy of the petition is attached to the temporary 5 restraining order." Is that a situation that we were 6 discussing before? You might have a copy attached to the 7 citation but then you might have a copy attached to the 8 petition for the -- to the TRO itself?

9 MS. WINK: Right. In other words, you might 10 have a petition that has the application in it, or you 11 might have a petition separately from the application.
12 Sometimes if you've done that application as a separate 13 document you've attached a copy of the petition and 14 incorporated it by reference, then fine. When they issue 15 the actual TRO they have to -- they ordinarily have to 16 attach a copy of the petition. If that copy of the 17 petition is attached to your application as well, this is 18 just saying, okay, clerk, you don't have to attach yet 19 another copy of the petition.

20 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

21 MS. WINK: We're making sure that the 22 respondent gets the petition as well as the application, if 23 they're in separate documents.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any more comments
25 on this?

1 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: Is there some other kind
2 of copy besides a true copy? Did I miss something there?

3 MR. DYER: A false copy.

4 MS. WINK: I've thought that for years, yes.

5 HONORABLE TOM GRAY: Could we maybe drop the 6 word "true"? Is that a constitutional requirement?

7 MS. WINK: You know, the big worry there is, 8 is some sneaky lawyer out there going to think he can -- he 9 or she can attach a false copy. You know, there's another 10 reason we left it in the rule saying that equity applies, 11 because we didn't want to take it out and have someone 12 think that equity no longer applied.

13 MR. ORSINGER: That would be a felony, by the 14 way, if they did that, I think.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: A false copy?

16 MR. ORSINGER: Uh-huh. If you attach that to 17 a piece of process and it's not a copy of the original 18 citation, I think it violates the Texas Penal Code.

19 MR. GARCIA: Well, a false copy is not a 20 copy. It's something else.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Rule 9, the answer.

22 MR. GILSTRAP: We can get rid of this 23 quickly.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Any comments on Rule 9?
25 Roger.

1 MR. HUGHES: Are we on Rule 9?

2 MS. WINK: Yes.

3 MR. HUGHES: Okay. You know, I'm not a big 4 fan of sworn denials, but as long as it's clear we've got 5 to have it, that what I would say is I don't think the 6 answer should deny the allegation -- I mean, a sworn one, 7 because after 93 there's a lot of things in Rule 93 that 8 you have to swear to are false that are just pure legal 9 concepts. So I would say it might be stronger to say that 10 they only have to deny the material facts in the petition 11 as opposed to the material allegation.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Frank.

13 MR. GILSTRAP: I think we can get rid of this 14 rule. The first sentence says that the defendant can file 15 an answer. Well, we already know that. That doesn't add 16 anything. The second sentence does talk about you can get 17 a dissolution of the injunction based on a sworn denial, 18 but I think we've already overtaken that with 1(g) and 19 2(d).

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

21 MR. GILSTRAP: There we said that if you're 22 seeking to dissolve it on the basis of law you just ask for 23 -- file a motion. If it's on the basis of fact, you either 24 have to have a sworn motion or a -- put on evidence, so 25 with that, I think the second sentence would just confuse

1 that, so we ought to take it out, too.

2 MS. WINK: How about if I work on clarifying
3 that to be in parallel with what was 1(g) and 2(g)?

4 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: How about we get rid 5 of it?

6 MR. GILSTRAP: I think we ought to get rid of 7 it. It's been around since 1940, and as far as I can tell 8 nobody has used it.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: 10, disobedience. We've 10 spoken quite a bit about disobedience already.

11 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Can you actually 12 proceed on a contempt motion based on just a show cause 13 order without the defendant present and incarcerate them?
14 I thought you had to have them present in order to 15 incarcerate them.

16 MS. WINK: I think there's trouble in this 17 language here, too. It was my understanding that you've 18 got to have them present, and the other day Judge 19 Peeples -- in fact, I'm not the best person to ask that 20 because I've never had to do this in state court. I've 21 always done it in Federal court, and we had the people 22 present, so it wasn't a question, and we had show cause
23 orders out there. So one of the things that Judge Peeples 24 suggested is that we really focus on perhaps revising this 25 rule to address those kinds of issues. I have started an

1 alternative draft to be considered and would recommend that 2 y'all take a look at that when we come in next time, but I
3 will double-check that for you before we come in here.

4 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I think the way we 5 proceed now, and I don't know that it's required, but the 6 way we're currently -- I think our practice up in our 7 districts is to issue the show cause order if the defendant 8 doesn't appear personally, and that includes -- counsel is 9 not enough. Then you issue the writ of attachment to bring 10 them present before the court, so -- and I think that's 11 required by the case law, but it's been a while since I've 12 gone back to check it.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. We're going to get 14 a redraft of this next time. I just want to ask briefly 15 about Rule 11. To me this doesn't say very much.

16 MR. GILSTRAP: I don't think we need it. I 17 mean, it's been -- I think it's been overtaken by the 18 statute. The statute says that -- that principles of 19 equity are one of the basis for getting an injunction. For 20 example, if it's real property you don't have to prove -- 21 you don't have to prove adequate -- adequate remedy at law.
22 I don't think this adds anything. I think we ought to take 23 it out.

24 MS. WINK: Now, this is existing Rule 693, by 25 the way.

1 MR. GILSTRAP: Right.

2 MS. WINK: I don't disagree with you.

3 MR. GILSTRAP: I know it's the old rule.

4 MS. WINK: I just want to make sure everybody
5 has got this out. The one reason the task force as a whole 6 as well as the subcommittee suggested not taking it out is 7 we don't want practitioners to think that there's no longer 8 equitable principles in injunctions simply because the rule 9 has been taken out.

10 MR. GILSTRAP: Well, what equitable 11 principles are there? There's no adequate remedy at law 12 and irreparable harm.

13 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: Unclean hands.

14 MR. GILSTRAP: What's that?

15 HONORABLE DAVID EVANS: I try all of the 16 unclean hands cases in Tarrant County.

17 MR. ORSINGER: Don't undertake to list
18 equitable defenses because the list is infinite, and it 19 will eventually end up in Latin.

20 MR. GILSTRAP: I forgot about clean hands.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, taking this out 22 is --

23 MR. ORSINGER: I would say on taking out on 24 Rule 11, I mean, I think that there is a danger that people 25 begin to think that the only rules that govern the issuance

1 of injunctions are the Rules of Procedure, and in reality 2 there's a whole host of rules that involve a lot of 3 equitable principles that we don't mention anywhere but 4 here. So this is, if you will, a reminder to people that 5 even though we are controlling the procedure that's 6 associated with it, there are many associated principles, 7 and so I'm not against this rule. I think that people 8 don't think enough of equity.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Jan.

10 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: It's a gap filler 11 by reference, and I would favor leaving it in.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

13 MR. MUNZINGER: I think there's a lot of risk 14 in deleting it, because everybody looks at this and says, 15 "My god, the Supreme Court deleted this rule. There must 16 have been a substantive reason for doing so," and that 17 isn't the intent.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Modernization.

19 HONORABLE JAN PATTERSON: They're against 20 equity.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Our next meeting is 22 August 26 and 27th, right back here, dealing again with the 23 ancillary rules; and I think that's probably, absent an 24 emergency, going to be the only issue on our docket. So 25 we're going to get as far as we can next time with the 1 ancillary rules.

2 MR. GILSTRAP: Although, I think -- we didn't 3 cover 12, because they're deleting the old 691.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yeah.

5 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Chip, could you just make 6 an announcement that the entire ancillary report is on the 7 web page?

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Everybody, the 9 entire -- hang on for a second. The entire ancillary 10 report is on the SCAC website if you want to look at it in 11 advance of the meeting.

12 MR. ORSINGER: And are we going to revisit 13 any of this language, or is it over?

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. Dulcie is going to 15 redraft in accordance with our discussion.

16 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: But we're not going to go 18 through this line by line again. We're going to target the 19 specific things.
